Congolese Jail Reds

'Compromising Documents' Seized

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Congolese security agents and gendarmes dragged two Soviet diplomats feet first from their car Tuesday, beat them with clubs and hauled them off to jail.

They were still held today.

Soviet embassy officials said the diplomats were embassy counsellor Boris Noronin and press attache Yuri Miakotnykh. The officials said they had no word on their fate.

Eyewitnesses said Noronin and Miakotnykh refused to allow the Congolese to search their car on their return from Brazzaville, across the Congo River. The diplomats claimed diplomatic immunity.

Soviet embassy officials said the Congolese also had cut the telephone and electric supply to the luxury apartment where the 100-man Soviet mission lives and works.

Sources close to the Congolese government hinted that "highly compromising" documents had been seized from the two arrested diplomats.

Gendarmes stood guard outside the embassy building Tuesday night, refusing to allow callers to enter.

Relations between the Congolese government and the Communist block have been bad, and some members of Premier Cyrille Adoula's regime recently were agitating for a break with the Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria, the Communist nations with which the Congo has diplomatic relations.

Forced Doors Open

An eyewitness to the arrest of the two Russians said when they refused to allow a search of their car at the Brazzaville ferry landing, the congolese let all the air out of the car's tires.

An argument lasting more than an hour followed. The Soviet diplomats sat stiffly in their car.

Finally, the Congolese forced open the car doors, dragged the Russians out and threw them into a Congolese army truck. When they tried to get off the truck, they were beaten with clubs, the witness said.

Another witness said one of the diplomats tried to push a document inside his shirt, but a Congolese grabbed his collar and ripped off his shirt front.

The first secretary of the British Embassy, Douglas Blyth, finally telephoned the Soviet Embassy.

Two Russians from the embassy reached the landing stage after the diplomats had been driven off. It was not known where they were taken.

Sources close to the government said the two Russians had been unable to satisfy security police they were diplomats.

Accused of Plot

Last month Congolese ministers accused an unnamed foreign embassy with financing a plot to bribe soldiers to arrest or kill government leaders prior to an armed coup.

Well-informed sources said at that time several ministers were demanding the rupture of diplomatic relations with the Communists and the United Arab Republic, claiming these embassies were the paymasters of subversion.

Boy Recluse Held For Taking Food At Uptown Home

A 16-year-old boy, who, police said, had lived as a recluse for nearly a month in a swamp between Albany Avenue and the Esopus Creek, faces prosecution on a burglary charge because of apparent interest Tuesday afternoon in dropped apples.

John Gregg Long, 16, of 16 Pine Street, was apprehended in the lowlands and booked on a third degree burglary charge for allegedly having entered a St. James Court home and taken food.

Other Boy Is Lead

Interest of a 12-year-old boy in apples dropped from a tree on a property far to the rear of St. John's Episcopal Church, off Albany Avenue, Sgt. Carl Janahiewicz said, set police on the trail.

The younger boy was spotted by Officer John Kennedy, and he with Detective Harold DeGraff and Janasiewicz began the search, with the knowledge that the boy knew Long.

Asleep Under Tree

Sgt. Janasiewicz went directly to the lowlands and the detective and patrolman covered areas of possible escape. The sergeant made his way through a maze of paths which had been cleared through thick swamp growth and found Long asleep under a tree where he apparently had been living since he left home.

Police theorized that the younger boy was gathering the apples to bring back to Long. He had stuffed some in a blouse when police came upon him.

Missing Several Times

Long, reported missing several times during the year, police charge, had entered the home of Mrs. Jeanne A. Snyder, of 7 St. James Court, and had taken food. Entrance, they said, was gained through a cellarway.

Special City Judge Bernard A. Feeney today adjourned hearing until Thursday to permit Long time to obtain counsel. Bail was fixed at $250 cash or $500 property and the cash bail was posted.

Police said Long's swampland retreat had no cover other than the tree near which he was found sleeping.

Papers, Photos From Stranger Jailed Barghoorn

Washington (AP) — Photographs bundled inside a roll of newspapers and thrust into his hands by a stranger in front of a Moscow hotel apparently were Yale Prof. Frederick C. Barghoorn's passport to arrest seconds later by Soviet police.

In the 16 days that he was imprisoned on spy charges, he told newsmen Tuesday, he was not mistreated and signed no confessions.

Has Same Belief

He said his experience has not shattered his belief that cultural exchange programs between the United States and Russia are a good thing. But the State Department still has not given a go-ahead for scheduled exchange talks which the United States canceled because of the Barghoorn incident.

Professor, 52, who was released Saturday and returned home Sunday, met with State Department officials for six hours Tuesday to talk about his Moscow experience. Then he met with newsmen, telling this story:

On Eve of Departure

On Oct. 31, the eve of his planned departure from Moscow, he returned to the Metropole Hotel in the Soviet capital around 7:25 p.m. Suddenly he was approached by a "young-ish-looking man, carrying what looked like a roll of newspapers."

The man asked something which Barghoorn believes was: "Are you an American?"

"I was startled, said yes, and he pushed toward me the roll of newspapers. I took it. I thought, perhaps foolishly, that it was propaganda material and put it into my coat. Almost simultaneously I was grabbed and hustled off in an automobile."

He said there were photographs in the roll, adding "I would not understand military matters."

Barghoorn said that neither on this trip nor on previous visits to Russia was he on "intelligence assignment."

$62.7 Million Education Bond Displeasing to Levitt

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State Comptroller Arthur Levitt has given reluctant approval of a $62.7-million bond issue for expansion of the State University.

The comptroller, a Democrat, made no bones Tuesday of the fact that he doesn't like the controversial, new fiscal program set up by the Republican Rockefeller administration.

Levitt said, however, he could not officially reject the financing procedure because this would amount to assuming a veto power "over the Legislature itself."

Levitt, a frequent critic of Rockefeller's fiscal policies, said the sale of bonds directly by the state through long-standing methods would be preferable.

Levitt contends that some of Rockefeller's plans to pay for costly construction projects are designed to circumvent a requirement in the constitution that permission must be obtained from voters for any state borrowing.

Rockefeller has insisted that no referendum is necessary because the loans will not be repaid directly from tax funds.

Officially, borrowing to finance the $1-billion expansion of the State University will be paid back with tuition from students.

The State Housing Finance Agency is selling the bonds. The money will be turned over to the State University Construction Funds, which is directing the expansion program.

In announcing his formal endorsement of the Rockefeller plan, Levitt pointed out that the state held authority from voters to issue more than $200 million in direct state bonds to finance State University construction.

Rockefeller has declined to use that authority. He says such a procedure would violate what he calls his pay-as-you-go policy.

McCullough Named Policeman of Year

Kingston Kiwanis at its Thursday meeting will honor Kingston Detective Charles G. McCullough as "Policeman of the Year."

Joining the Kingston Police Department on June 22, 1953, as a patrolman, McCullough was appointed a detective on April 16, 1959 and has since that date served with distinction in the solving of many crimes in the city. Previous to his appointment as a patrolman in the Kingston City Police Department he had been employed by Colonial Knitwear Company of 18 Pine Grove Avenue and Hercules Powder Company of Port Ewen.

During the early part of 1963 after the Kingston Police Department had been plagued with a number of crimes, including burglary, hold up and various other law violations Detective McCullough through his tireless efforts and diligence along with other members of the department and other outside police agencies, was able to solve a goodly number of various types of crimes and on March 29, 1963, he had solved or accounted for 44 different crimes in the City of Kingston. Among those crimes were violation of the Sullivan Law, burglary and hold up and as a result five adults and two juveniles were arrested and charged with crimes they had committed.

As a result of his solving those crimes, 15 other crimes committed outside the city were solved through the cooperation of other police agencies, including the BCI of the Division of New York State Police at the Kingston station.

Since being appointed to the police department, Detective McCullough, a graduate of Kingston High School, has attended a number of Intraining Police Courses and during that time has compiled 934 hours while attending various courses which have been given by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, New York State Police International Chief's of Police and Sheriff's Association and the New York City Police Department where he spent 200 hours at that Academy in January 1962, along with other members of the Detective Division of the Kingston Police Department. That course covered many phases of scientific police investigation along with many other useful courses very helpful in police activities.

Adjourns Cases Of Riggins and Stanley for Shots

Special City Judge Bernard A. Feeney Jr., today adjourned hearing of two of six young men booked on charges after a reported Sunday night shooting spree in the city.

Ronald Riggins, 21, of Codwise Street, Sunset Park, appeared with Attorney Charles J. Saccoman, and the case was adjourned to Nov. 27 for all purposes. Bail of $300 cash on each of four charges, which was posted, was continued.

Jay Stanley, 23, of 1 Cottage Row, appeared with Attorney Francis Martocci and the case was adjourned to Nov. 25, when others allegedly involved are due to appear. Bail for him fixed at $200 cash or $400 property on each of four charges, had not been posted.

The six were booked on two charges of disorderly conduct, one of discharging firearms in the city and one dealing with alleged killing of a dog in the uptown area.

The others, due to appear in court again Nov. 25 are: Terry Curtis, 24, of 23 West Pierpont Street; Uhland Kaschel, 23, of 286 East Chester Street; John Dunn, 22, of 4 Tietjen Avenue, and Thomas Ashdown, 20, of 537 Albany Avenue Extension.

A typographical error resulted in a wrong report for bail fixed Monday for Dunn and Stanley. It should have read $200 cash or $400 property instead of $20 and $400.

James Vincent Reynolds, 18, of 37 Emerick Street, charged several weeks ago with attempting to cash a $250 check, which police said he had found, was held for the grand jury after a preliminary city court hearing today. It was reported that the check had been made out at Otto's Store, 650 Broadway and that an attempt had been made to cash it at a local bank.

20 Years Since Tarawa

Shoup Recalls 3-Day Costly Assault

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — After 20 years, Marine Gen. David M. Shoup still relives the blood - drenched Battle of Tarawa — all but a few vital seconds that remain a blank in his mind.

Those were the seconds it took Shoup to dash about 40 yards across bullet - and - mortar - swept coral sand to the shelter of a blockhouse wall.

From there, the man who was to become commandmant of the Marine Corps directed the savage assault on the tiny Central Pacific island which Japan had converted into a fortress.

Costly Engagement

That three - day battle, which began at dawn just 20 years ago today, was the most costly brief engagement in Marine history.

When it was over, 990 Marines were dead — many shot down before they could wade ashore from disabled or stranded landing craft. Another 2,311 Leathernecks were wounded.

Only 18 of the 4,800 - man Japanese garrison lived to be captured. The rest were slain in their bunkers, or killed themselves rather than surrender.

Shoup, 58, has good reason to remember Tarawa — he won the Medal of Honor there.

Exposed to Fire

The citation said this:

"Although severely shocked by an exploding enemy shell soon after landing . . . and suffering from a serious, painful leg wound which had become infected, Col. Shoup fearlessly exposed himself to the terrific and relentless artillery, machinegun and rifle fire. . .

"Rallying his hesitant troops . . . he gallantly led them across the fringing reefs to charge the heavily fortified island and reinforce our hard - pressed, thinly held lines. . ."

Graying but still rugged-looking, Shoup reminisced about the battle as he sat in his big, memento - cluttered office at Marine headquarters.

"It's as clear as though it was yesterday," Shoup told an interviewer in accents that reflected his Indiana birth.

N.Y. Dems Scoff At Republican's Gambling Inquiry

NEW YORK (AP)—"Ridiculous" and "tyrannical" is the Democratic reaction to announcement of plans for a legislative investigation of the gambling laws and their enforcement—particularly in this Democratic city.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner and Joseph Zaretzki of Manhattan, Democratic minority leader of the State Senate, denounced the state Republican leaders' plans shortly after they were revealed Tuesday.

Effort to Thwart Will

They said the plan was an effort to thwart the will of New York City residents who voted by a three-to-one margin in an advisory referendum Nov. 5 in favor of legalizing off-track betting on horse races.

The proposal goes to next year's GOP-controlled Legislature.

The Republican move was taken as a new maneuver to hold off Democratic pressure for off-track betting legalization.

The Republican strategy was revealed by Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino, Long Beach Republican, in a speech at the annual conference of the National Association of Citizens Crime Commissions in Baltimore. Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney, Buffalo Re-

Traver Charge Is Referred To Grand Jury in Dutchess

Suspended Police Lt. George H. Traver, 51, of Poughkeepsie, arrested early Sunday in connection with the alleged shooting of a taxicab driver, appeared Tuesday afternoon before Town of Poughkeepsie Justice of the Peace George C. Dietz.

Lt. Traver was accompanied by Ward W. Ingalsbe Jr., Kingston attorney, and waived preliminary examination. The second degree assault charge, to which Traver previously pleaded innocent, was referred for grand jury action.

Judge Dietz continued Traver in surety bond of $5,000.

Traver, a veteran policeman, with 27 years of service as a member of the Poughkeepsie police force, was taken into custody Sunday morning by Town of Poughkeepsie police. He was accused of assaulting John H. Phillip, 34, of Highland, a driver for the DuBois Cabs of Poughkeepsie.

Town Police reported Traver and his wife had visited a tavern, and later the lieutenant drove home, and his wife took the cab operated by Phillips. Police said the suspended police officer and Phillips engaged in a quarrel on the lawn of the Traver home, 1 Colburn Drive, Arlington, and during a scuffle the lieutenant allegedly hit the taxi driver on the head with his .32 caliber Colt automatic.

Town Detective Sergeant Philip S. McCready told a reported that Traver claimed the gun accidentally discharged. A bullet hit Phillips' shoulder. He was taken to Vassar Hospital.

Diplomatic Staffs to Be Cut

Help Undermined Regime, Is Charge

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The Cambodian Foreign Ministry summoned U. S. Ambassador Philip D. Sprouse today, presumably to deliver orders from ruling Prince Norodom Sihanouk for an immediate end to the $30 million-a-year program of U.S. military and economic aid to his country.

Won't Sever Relations

Sihanouk announced his decision to a wildly cheering rally of his political party Tuesday. He charged U.S. aid was being used to undermine his regime and that rebel Cambodians based in South Viet Nam were using American equipment.

The prince said he did not want to sever diplomatic relations with the United States but that "all U.S. missions other than a skeleton diplomatic staff must go."

The State Department earlier Tuesday instructed Sprouse to inform the Cambodian government that the prince's charges were false. But Sihanouk apparently acted before the denial could be transmitted to him.

Work Actually Halts

Work on U.S. aid projects actually halted yesterday after Sihanouk's speech. American officials said the various aid programs would be phased out as fast as possible.

American aid is mainly concentrated on agricultural and educational projects. The United States also has supplied most of the equipment in the small Cambodian armed forces and a 65-man military mission to advise in the use of the equipment.

French Aid Continuing

A French military mission of about 800 men is responsible for actual combat training of the armed forces. While Sihanouk said earlier that all Western aid might be terminated, it appeared for the moment that French military advisory aid would continue.

Cambodia has a foreign exchange reserve of about 90 million which should keep the little Southeast Asian nation solvent for several years. But a break in economic ties with the United States is expected to hit the Cambodian economy hard.

Funds derived from the U.S. commercial import program in Cambodia paid for about 40 per cent of the upkeep of the nation's small armed forces, but most of the military training is handled by a French mission of about 800 men.

Some Aid From Reds

Cambodia also receives some economic aid from the Soviet Union and Communist China.

Sihanouk's decision to cut economic ties with the United States was generally attributed to a widespread belief that U.S. aid cuts in South Viet Nam last summer resulted in the military coup that overthrew President

Episcopal Priest Proposes Lower Funeral Expenses

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — An Episcopal priest, concerned by what he terms high funeral costs, is passing out forms to his parishoners so they can arrange for "simple, inexpensive" burials.

The Rev. L. Densmore Jacobs, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, complained about "the rising costs being foisted upon us by the whole funeral industry."

He said he had been stirred by the best-selling book, "The American Way of Death," a controversial study of the funeral business by Jessica Mitford.

On Father Jacobs' form, the parishoner is asked to indicate whether he wishes immediate burial from the church after death, whether the casket should be opened for public viewing and whether flowers should be sent or the money donated to church memorial funds.

Father Jacobs said he is opposed to public viewing of the deceased and use of cosmetics on corpses.

Report Wells Is Rocky's Choice as Campaign Leader

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller is reported to have picked John A. Wells, a 55-year-old New York City lawyer, to be national director of his campaign for the presidency.

An announcement today was considered likely.

Newspapers reported today that Wells, who has homes in Manhattan and in suburban Mount Vernon, N.Y., has been selected by Rockefeller, only announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

There were reports that George L. Hinman, New York State's Republican national committeeman, will continue as campaign representative of Rockefeller outside New York State.

No explanation of the division of command in the reported Wells-Hinman team was available.

Wells has been active in New York City and state Republican politics almost since the day he received his master's degree from Harvard Law School in 1936. He worked in the 1952, 1956 and 1960 presidential campaigns and managed Sen. Jacob K. Javits' re-election campaign in 1962.

Youth Faces Chair

ATLANTA (AP) — A Negro whose death sentence at age 15 sparked international concern faces electrocution Dec. 6.

For the fourth time in two years young Preston Cobb Jr. heard the death sentence imposed Monday. He was convicted in August 1961 for killing his elderly white employer. Numerous appeals have been made, all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, but all were turned down.

New Interpretation

DENVER (AP) — A 12-year-old boy, testifying in a case involving a damage suit over an auto accident, said he received a concussion.

Dist. Judge Mitchel B. Johns asked if he knew what a concussion is.

"Well, it's when you tell what you know," the boy said. "You say to the priest you sinned."

Kraft, Kelsch Take Part in Big Lift

Army Col. William R. Kraft Jr., and Pfc Frank J. Kelsch of Kingston, and other members of the 3rd Armored Division acted as a mock aggressor force during the second phase of Operation Big Lift in Germany.

Following their arrival by air from the U. S., the 2nd Armored Division began a week-long training maneuver in which the 3rd Armored Division acted as the enemy. The exercise ended Nov. 5.

Col. Kraft, son of Mrs. Frank G. Kraft, 7 Burgevin Street, is commander of the 3rd Armored Division's 1st Brigade near Kirch Gons, Germany. The 44-year-old officer was graduated from Kingston High School in 1936 and from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, in 1942.

Pfc Kelsch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Kelsch, Route 4, is a radio teletype operator in Headquarters Troop, 3rd Squadron of the 3rd Armored Division's 12th Cavalry near Budingen, Germany. The 24-year-old soldier entered the Army in July 1962 and completed basic training at Fort Dix, N. J. He was graduated from Kingston High School in 1957.

'57 Letter Still Travels

KETCHIKAN, Alaska (AP) — A letter, tattered in transit and bearing an oft-cancelled 3-cent stamp, was en route to Sitka today.

The letter, addressed to Ed Bohac in Juneau, was posted here June 5, 1957, when three cents was sufficient postage. It has been traveling much of the time since, including one trip to Westport, Wash.

In the interim the sender died, so postal officials continued sending the letter in search of Bohac. Tuesday, they found a Sitka address and hopefully the letter will arrive before he moves again.

Blame Burglars For Church Blaze

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A pre-dawn fire, believed to have been set by burglars, today extensively damaged the 39-year-old Calvary Episcopal Church in the city's northeast section.

Police said burglars had broken into the church office and carted off a small safe containing church records but no money.

A fire official said the flames broke out in the sanctuary of the church and destroyed the altar and organ. Fire doors prevented the flames from spreading to a new, brick education building, which adjoins the frame church.

The burglars apparently set two fires in the basement of the fireproof education building without causing any damage, the official said.

Firemen fought the flames for an hour and a half.

There was no immediate estimate of the loss.

Cambodia No Surprise

Communism Increases Threat To Southeast Asia Sectors

An AP News Analysis
By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Communism has inched a bit closer to one of its short - term goals in Southeast Asia, and the long - range threat to that strategic area has been increased.

What has just happened in Cambodia should be no surprise. The United States has had more than two years to prepare for the announcement that Cambodia would send the Yankees packing, along with their aid.

Surprise or not, the effect can be to advance the cause of neutralism in the area. It can cause rulers to weigh cautiously the prospects for making peace with Peking.

The Communists achieved a step in their campaign to move in on Southeast Asia when a neutralist formula for Laos was adopted at Geneva. Laos borders Cambodia on the north and separates it from China. The Communists wanted the same formula for the other former French Indo-China states, including South Viet Nam.

The idea appeared to be neutralization first, then expulsion of Western influence. Finally the Communists would dominate, and not necessarily by outright conquest.

Any unraveling of Red designs in Asia is complicated by the ideological war between Moscow and Peking. Moscow helped evolve the neutralist formula for Laos, but Southeast Asia is out of Moscow's reach. If it is to be dominated by a Communist power, it will be by Red China.

More than two years ago, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodia's chief of state, told a Soviet newspaper that if his country had to be allied with any foreign power, "it probably would not be with one in the West, which has never understood or supported us."

This was despite American aid. It bruises American feelings to learn that U.S. aid is not always entirely welcome in Southeast Asia. It sometimes creates — as in Laos — problems of inflation and economic dislocations.

There never seemed much mutual confidence between the assisting Americans and the Cambodian regime. Always conscious of China, and with the Oriental long-range view of the future, the Cambodian regime wanted to be neutral. The Americans feared it would be "neutral" on the Communist side.

Cambodia is taking the plunge and divorcing herself from U.S. help. If this neutralism, combined with that of Laos, should lead one day to domination of the two countries by Communists, overtly or covertly, the West would suffer a severe strategic setback.

Cleo's Dresses Bargain

LONDON (AP) — A beauty operator and a seamstress paid $30.80 Tuesday for two of Elizabeth Taylor's costumes from the movie "Cleopatra." The costumes originally cost more than $1,000.

The actress donated the dresses to a charity bazaar. She was said to have worn them only once.

Judy Britton, 19, a seamstress at a London theater, bought the one for $5.60.

"I doubt if I'll ever wear it," she said, "I'm too fat, but I'll keep it in my wardrobe because of its historical interest.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 20, 1963

NEW BIRTH OF FREEDOM

It was on Nov. 19, 1863, that President Lincoln spoke the few words since immortalized as the Gettysburg Address. In this centennial year, it is fitting to read that great utterance again, and to reconsider its significance.

It is noteworthy that, although the Gettysburg Address is now universally regarded as one of the noblest speeches of all time, when the words were spoken they fell flat. Comment in the press was generally unfavorable, the speech was described as "silly" and "inappropriate."

Never was it more clearly shown that historic events and statements are often grossly misjudged by those immediately involved. The first reactions to the Gettysburg Address bespeak the danger of hasty conclusions; They show the folly of thinking in stereotypes—in this case, accepting the common view that because Edward Everett's two-hour oration preceding Lincoln's talk was long and grandiloquent it was the real meat of the program.

That is peripheral. The central importance of the Gettysburg Address is obviously to be found in the ideas expressed. It is remembered not merely for its remarkable felicity of language, but because it emphasized so well—for our generation as well as for Lincoln's—the American fundamentals.

This nation, said Lincoln, was "conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal." That bell rings as clearly in 1963 as it did a century ago. He called for high resolve that this nation "shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth." That lofty challenge still demands the best from all of us who call ourselves Americans.

OUR FOREFATHERS' SPIRIT

With the approach of the Thanksgiving Day holiday, it is well to give thought to the traditional Thanksgiving our grandfathers knew and that Currier and Ives immortalized in engravings. It was a day of rest and feasting and of prayer in which gratitude was offered for the good things of the past and hope was held out for the future. It also was a day of affirmation in the existence of a higher power than man and of faith in the workings of a divine providence.

We live now in an infinitely more complicated time. Materialistic advances of almost incredible dimension have dulled the needs of the spirit. And we live, too, in a world so torn with dissension covering every aspect of human affairs that the real significance of Thanksgiving largely has been lost. We have the feast without remembering the reason for the feast.

Perhaps this all may change. Perhaps this Thanksgiving Day great numbers of us will observe it in the spirit of our forefathers. If so, it will truly be a day of thanks for the blessings of the past, broken with troubles as they may have been and a day in which we will find new courage to meet whatever is to come. Then, above all it will be a day in which we realize deeply among other things our forefathers knew—that, under God, each individual human being owes an ever-lasting debt of duty and responsibility to his family and his neighbors and that no institution and no government can discharge it for him.

A letter Edgar Allan Poe wrote to Washington Irving was auctioned in London for $5,600—which is a lot more than Poe ever was paid for one of his stories.

EAR TO THE UNIVERSE

Not so very long ago, the most powerful instrument for probing outer space was the 200-inch telescope on Mt. Palomar in California. It was, and is, capable of making a photographic record of objects so remote as to be beyond the grasp of the layman's imagination.

Then came the radio telescope, which is in a sense a giant ear rather than a giant eye. With this new kind of instrument, astronomers were able to penetrate vastly deeper into the universe. Now in one great leap, the hearing range of radio astronomy has been doubled by completion of the radio telescope in a natural bowl in the mountains near Arecibo, Puerto Rico.

The capabilities of this remarkable instrument are great, and will become even more so as astronomers test its powers. They will learn more about things as near as the earth's magnetic fields and as far as millions of light years from this planet. If man can keep the peace at home, he may yet come to understand the tremendous ocean in which earth floats like a bit of plankton.

OIL MEN AND THE OLD SCHOOL SPIRIT

The donkey that starved because it was equidistant between two bales of hay and couldn't make up its mind which way to move had a minor dilemma to solve compared to that faced by the American oil industry.

If you don't believe the donkey was in a comparatively enviable position, you should listen to the perplexity of oil men who attended a recent American Petroleum Institute meeting in Chicago. The industry had been treated to a speech by Thomas S. Gates, President of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Company and former U. S. Secretary of Defense, which paid high tribute to the activities of American oil men abroad.

"Your potential contribution to the progress of the less-developed areas," said Mr. Gates, "is in some ways greater than that of any foreign aid program . . . When you send capital into a country, you send with it the powerful multiplier of managerial skill and technical know-how. Where the climate is receptive, you could carry this far beyond the scope of your own operations — into such fields as water supply, agriculture, transportation, education, even finance."

Listening to this, the oil men could have swelled with justifiable pride. Instead they went out into the lobby of the Conrad Hilton and read the headlines from Argentina, where Averell Harriman, that perennial U. S. diplomatic trouble shooter, had failed to persuade President Illia to honor North American oil contracts entered into by the previous Frondizi government.

Being no fool, Mr. Gates had not skipped blithely over the question of possible expropriation of U. S. oil company investment in foreign lands. Nevertheless, the news from the Argentine offered a most bitter commentary on his speech. North American petroleum companies had done yeoman work in making Argentina self-sufficient in oil. They had carried out effective drilling operations which have resulted in a domestic flow of oil that now saves the Argentine consumer from kicking up more than $300,000,000 annually in hard foreign currencies to import fuel. Indeed, the Argentinians are even exporting some oil. But President Illia refused to promise Averell Harriman any just compensation for an impending confiscation of Yankee-created property.

Meanwhile, as the oil men were listening to Mr. Gates say that "it has been gratifying to note that the United States government is reported to have spoken up in support of the agreements which American companies made in good faith," Brazil's President "Jango Goulart was busy jangling his spurs and figuratively rattling a sword. Addressing a conference of the Alliance for Progress, the ineffable "Jango" informed visiting North Americans that Latin America could solve its own problems. As "Jango's" self-sufficiency relates to oil, it consists of collecting hard money from foreigners as an import tax and then paying the foreigner for his product in soft Brazilian cruzeiros, which depreciate almost as fast as ice cream melts in a tropical sun.

With all this going on, the U. S. international oil men could hardly be impressed with Mr. Gates's exhortations to get out there and buck the line with the old school spirit. They have lived through Mexican and Cuban expropriations; they have willingly submitted to hefting practically the whole Venezuelan economy on their shoulders as the condition of doing business in Venezuela. They have seen the Soviet government steal their markets by price-cutting that cannot be justified economically. It is, of course, the Soviet Union's own business if it wants to sell its oil in Europe on a state-subsidized basis. But the U. S. oil men have a justifiable right to be outraged by the proposed wheat deal with the U. S., for the Soviet Union would assuredly be counting on its subsidized oil exports to raise foreign exchange to pay for the wheat.

Senator Hickenlooper wants to cut off aid to any foreign nation which expropriates American oil properties. As for the oil companies themselves, they might be forgiven if they were to dynamite their foreign possessions before relinquishing them. That is something that a Castro could understand.

Long Arm of U. S. Guards Against Food Impurities

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Fire and police protection we pretty much take for granted. There is another kind of protection few of us ever think about. This is the service rendered by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

Most of us don't realize how badly we need it. Here are some of the facts:

In recent months over 55 tons of wheat was seized and destroyed because it contained a poisonous mercury compound added as a seed treatment. Some additives are permitted within certain limits but there is no permissible amount of mercury.

A shipment of caviar was seized because it contained boron for which there is also no allowable limit.

Six carloads of soybeans were destroyed because they contained crotalaria, a poisonous weed. A ton of caraway seeds was found to be contaminated with small aluminum shavings sharp enough to cut the gums or tongue if they had found their way into your loaf of rye bread.

Seven packages of boneless turkey roll were found to be infected with paratyphoid germs. This lot had already caused an outbreak of food poisoning that involved 129 persons.

Twelve shipments of wheat totaling over 1 million pounds were found to be contaminated by rats. And 100,000 pounds of flour was found to be infested with insects. A shipment of doughnuts had to be condemned because it was contaminated with rat poison.

Two shipments of ocean perch were seized because they contained parasites, and two shipments of shrimp because they showed contamination with sewage. Other shipments of food were condemned because spoilage had occurred.

The FDA not only protects your health, it also protects your pocketbook by requiring correct labeling of ingredients and measure. Many seizures are made because of short weight. Others are made because of substitution of a cheaper product for the one stated on the label; for failing to state that artificial color, flaxor or preservatives have been added; for failure to remove scales from canned or packaged fish; or for adding water or foreign matter to increase the weight.

One of the most outlandish infractions of the law was perpetrated by the owner of a mink ranch. He purchased over 5,000 cans of insect-infected Argentine beef to feed his mink. It was really quite a bargain but then he got the bright idea that he could make more money by reselling the meat for human consumption. He didn't get away with it!

Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu, sister-in-law of the assasinated Vietnamese President Diem and widow of his brother and adviser on Buddhist suppression policies, insisted during her speaking tour of America that these Buddhists were Communist-dominated.

She inferred they were no better than the Viet Cong rebels. This charge has been discounted and denied.

But it is noteworthy that late in October the Chinese Communist government staged a conference of Buddhist leaders from 11 Asian countries in Peking.

They drew some important Buddhist leaders from countries like Japan, Indonesia, Cambodia and East Pakistan. They also drew some Communist stooges like the Viet Cong Buddhists from Viet Nam. And there were "hundreds" of Red Chinese monks, nuns, laymen.

THEY WERE RECEIVED and banqueted by Red China's leaders, including Premier Chou En-lai. The proceedings were broadcast all over Asia by Radio Peking. And this was propagandized as the most important international Buddhist conference since the fifth—an most recent—biennial meeting of the World Fellowship of Buddhists in Rangoon, 1958.

So this Peking conference was a shrewd international political stroke. While Communist China claims to be atheist, there are perhaps more people of Buddhist culture in Red China than in any other country in the world.

If Peking can establish even a phony leadership for the Buddhist movement in east and south Asia, it could become an important propaganda outlet for Red China's recognized ambition to become the dominant power in the Orient.

But there are grave doubts among the students of Buddhism that the Communist will be able to subvert Buddhism any more than the Diem regime in Viet Nam was able to suppress it. There is too much independence and individuality in it.

ANOTHER POINT IS THAT the Red Chinese have a black mark against them in that they drove the Dalai Lama from Tibet into Indian exile and suppressed the captive Tibetan heirarchy.

The Dalai Lama was spiritual leader of all Buddhists not only in Tibet, where he was temporal leader, but also in Nepal, Bhutan and Sikkim. Other than the Dalai Lama, there is no head and no central organization or headquarters for all Buddhists.

The governments of Thailand, Laos and Cambodia have departments of religious affairs which are predominantly Buddhist.

In Burma the deposed Premier U Nu tried to make Buddhism the state religion. Much of the opposition to the dictatorial policies of his successor, Ne Win, has come from Burmese Buddhists whom he has tried in vain to influence.

IN JAPAN, WHERE THERE are 13 Buddhist universities and 30 new Buddhist movements, the faith has its strongest hold and most influence.

One of the most active political sects is Soka Gakkai. It is actually an offshoot or rebirth of a 13th-century Buddhist order which was superpatriotic on a "Japan—right or wrong"

The revival has ben called both fascism and socialism, but it has even attracted some U. S. armed servicemen stationed in Japan, as converts.

Soka Gakkai has some members in the upper house of the Japanese Diet and it claims to have hundreds of local government officials as members.

But the society is not entering candidates in the Nov. 21 elections for new lower house members. So it does not yet threaten the Liberal Democrat or Socialist parties for political dominance in Japan.

Wrong Comparison Is Given On How Debts Are Handled

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy would not intentionally mislead the American people about the finances of the government of the United States — but unfortunately, some of his speech writers have given a wrong comparison of the way the Federal government and private business, respectively, handle their debts.

Mr. Kennedy, in a speech on Monday before the Florida Chamber of Commerce, gave the impression that the Federal government is a better "fiscal manager" than private business. He said:

"While the Federal net debt was growing less than 20 per cent in these years (1948 to 1962), total corporate debt — not my debt, your debt — was growing by nearly 200 per cent and the total indebtedness of private individuals rose by 300 per cent. So who is the most cautious fiscal manager?"

There is no real parallel. What Mr. Kennedy failed to make clear was that during all this time, while corporations and individuals were increasing their debts, they were also paying off their loans or mortgages or were borrowing money to acquire new assets. The Federal government, on the other hand, was borrowing money almost entirely to refund past loans.

During these very years—1948 to 1962—when the total corporate debt was rising by $228 billion, these same corporations earned $291 billion in profits after taxes. In contrast, the Federal government during that same period had total budget deficits of $42 billion and at the same time added $54 billion to the gross public debt.

No business could borrow money if it did not reduce its past debts out of its surpluses. An increase in corporate debt is based upon the expectation of repayment of this same debt in a specified time. A very small part of any such indebtedness is refinanced without at least a substantial payment on the principal.

But the Federal government makes no such curtailment of its principal and keeps on borrowing more and more money, incurring more and more deficits, and increasing its total debt.

Any business which attempted to finance itself on the pattern of the Federal government would certainly not be able to borrow any money in the capital markets today or at any other time. Thus, the Federal government, in fiscal year 1963, piled up a gross borrowing of $227 billion, of which less than $8 billion represented growth in the net debt. The remaining $219 billion was borrowed to refund existing debt.

Corporations, on the other hand, have been paying off a substantial part of their loans, and their increased debt represents investment in new projects—new plants and equipment or new enterprises.

It is incorrect, therefore, to compare corporate financing with that of the Federal government and say that the latter is better because it did not increase its debt as much as did the private sector in the economy.

Individuals may incur debt by borrowing to buy their homes, but they earn enough money after expenses to make reguar payments on the mortgages and at the same time to buy an automobile and pay for it in two or three years. Nobody could buy an automobile in 1948 and fail to pay it off by 1962. And yet the Federal government has merely borrowed the same amount of money to refund or replace the previous indebtedness, so that the total amount of the 1948 debt remains on the books, plus increased borrowings of $54 billion since 1948.

President Kennedy also gave an erroneous impression when he discussed profits. He has done so on several occasions lately in discussing this subject. He said to the Florida Chamber of Commerce:

"Why is it that profits are at an all-time high in the nation today? It is because the nation as a whole is prospering."

What Mr. Kennedy did not tell the American people is that profits in a realistic sense are way below what they were a few years ago.

Thus, manufacturing corporations from 1955 to 1957—which was an era of sustained economic activity and relatively full employment—earned 5.2 per cent on their sales and 11.7 cents per dollar on their net worth.

But since the year 1957, profits of manufacturing corporations have been at relatively depressed levels. For the last six years, they have averaged only 4.5 per cent of sales. This means that profits are 15 per cent below the 5.2 average of the 1955-1957 period. The profits also have been only 9.3 per cent of net worth, which is down considerably from the 11.7 per cent average of the 1955-1957 period.

It is to be noted that in 1963, after two years of so-called economic recovery, profits are 4.5 per cent of the gross national product. This is only a slight rise from the 4.2 per cent reported in 1961, which was the lowest figure in the period following World War 2.

To lay stress on the gross total of profits without regard to whether individual companies are making a satisfactory per cent on their investment is to confuse the issue. It is like saying that, because there are more people employed today than ever before, America is prosperous. Actually, the unemployment figure is still around 5.5 per cent, and there are many parts of the country called "distressed areas." It is illogical to boast about the amount of total profit when the actual percentage of profit on sales made remains well below the 1955-57 average.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

ARUBA, N. A.—They call this island a Touch of Dutch. It is part of the Netherlands Antilles, a coral banana fifteen miles off the coast of Venezuela. The natives speak their own language: Papiamento. It is a patois of Portuguese, Spanish, Dutch and French—with music. The Dutch own the island and, a few years ago, Prince Bernhardt stayed in the room at the Aruba Caribbean Hotel where this is being written.

It overlooks a blinding white beach edged with the jade of the Caribbean and, up and down the strand, there are thatched huts. Far off, the sea fades into lime, topped with fleecy balls of whipped cream. Behind the hotel is a windwill, and a small mountain called Haystack. These are Dutch, but the rest is pure Pago-Pago.

Aruba is a busy place. There are as many palm trees as people—58,000. It is only 20 miles long, but, on the southern tip, Esso has one of the world's great oil refineries and, in the middle of the island, one can hunt gold by turning stones over and over looking for nuggets.

The native women are stout and very dark. They don't' walk. They undulate like a sexy earthquake. Every little house seems to have a garden of hibiscus and bougainvillaea, and the shutters are in yellows and oranges and blues. There are boulders bigger than bungalows and parakeets grow wild among them and imitate all the other birds on the island.

The Arubans make drinking water from the sea. They condense and purify 6,500,000 gallons a day and it comes out so pure that it has no taste. So they filter it through coral to give it a slight flavor. They have a prison too—an old fort—but the walls are falling because crime is infrequent and consists mostly of drunken sailors chasing girls in a seaport town called Saint Nicolas. My credo is to the contrary. When sailors stop chasing girls, they should be arrested.

Aruba is also the home of the Div-Divi tree. It's a sapling about 10 feet high. The branches grow at right angles, as though hit by a hurricane. The natives call it The One-Way Tree.

There is no trait of Castroism here. The people are content under Dutch rule, and they admire their governor, recently appointed by Queen Juliana. He is a young man named Oscar Henriquez and he is so democratic that, when his children got measles a few weeks ago, he got them too.

It is only natural that, in an island paradise which is neither Dutch nor Spanish nor Portuguese nor French, that the Aruba Caribbean Hotel should be managed by an Austrian named Henry Steeber. In one of the villages there is a temple called Beth Israel. Most of the other churches are Roman Catholic, although I suspected that they might be called Dutch Reformed Cha Cha Cha.

My wife and I would not be here except that we discovered that K.L.M. flies jets from New York to Curacao (the adjacent island) in three hours and 40 minutes. This is no longer than it takes to drive from Times Square to Atlantic City, or from Los Angeles to San Diego, although Aruba is in the Torrid Zone, and those other places are only torrid by inclination.

The roads are mostly unpaved and rural and everyone drives slowly because wild goats roam the roads and hills. I watched a group of them walking the top of a broken wall which was once a mill for placer gold mining. The place has gone from two-legged goats to four-legged ones.

Many of the Dutch houses have hex signs. These, at one time, were supposed to ward off evil spirits. Today, they are used for decorative purpposes.

So say the Dutch, with their fingers crossed. We watched a Spanish man sit on a small house wall playing a guitar. In a few minutes, he had part of the village at his gate, listening and swaying.

This is the only place in the world where cactus is grown to make a border around property. It grows so close that, from a distance, it looks like a green picket fence. The biggest concession to Dutch influence is in the use of tile. It is on floors, on walls, patios—everywhere. And always in bright designs.

There is true integration here, but the natives are a little bit snobbish. They prefer to remain among themselves, although they send 21% of their people to school to learn to speak Dutch. The only recreation on the island which the natives are excluded is the gambling casino. The roulette wheels, dice tables and one-armed bandits are for tourists.

The government protects the citizen from the visitors' vice. Other than that, the native is welcome wherever he goes. He knows that the white man has air conditioning and television; he just can't understand why.

With a little push, I could become a beachcomber. . .

Four People Hurt In 4-Car Mishap On Pearl Street

Four persons reported injuries after a four-car, chain reaction mishap on Pearl Street early Tuesday afternoon.

Among the injured were two of the drivers, Wilbur Turck, 36, of 51 O'Neil Street, who reported a neck injury, and Madeline Morris, 35, of 192 Albany Avenue, injured left side.

The others injured were Mary Giles, 35, of the Nevele Country Club, Ellenville, who was riding in a car driven by Kenneth E. Giles, 39, of the same address, and Sally Rebstock, 32, of Kerhonkson, in the same car. The former reported a back injury and the latter injuries of the head and stomach.

The other car involved was driven by Philip Rosdol, 37, of Spring Lake Drive.

A police report indicated that none had been hospitilized. It was claimed that one of the cars had stopped suddenly. Officers Louis Sapp and James Scott investigated.

Originally called Scupi or Skupi, Skopje, Yugoslovia, was the capital of Dardania, a province of ancient, Illyria. Conquered by Rome, it was the birthplace of the Emperor Justinian, who restored the city after the earthquake of 518.

Police Still Hunt For Occupants of Bailey Stolen Car

State and local police today continued on the hunt for occupants of a car reported stolen early this morning from lower Broadway and found wrecked on the Ohayo Mountain Road, near Broadview, Woodstock.

Reports today on the theft indicated that a young man, believed to be about 20 years old and a girl, about 16 years old, had been seen in or near the car.

A report to local police at 2:35 a. m. said the car, owned by Mrs. Geraldine Bailey, of Wimpy's Tavern, 92 Broadway, had been taken at about 1:55 a. m., from near the tavern.

At 3:40 a. m., the car, a 1957 Rambler four-door sedan, was reported found damaged on the Ohayo Mountain Road. It was located by Trooper John Turck, a former local patrolman, and Gerry Zappolo.

The troopers continued searching the area, the report said, and were joined by Sgt. Thomas Tomshaw and Detective William Slover, of the local police.

The car, upon request of its owner, was towed to Rudi's Service Station, West Hurley.

WOOL GATHERING—Outlook for the wool industry in 1964 is continued decline in production and continued increase in imports of finished wool textiles. So says the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which also predicts that U.S. producers of shorn wool will receive slightly lower prices than in 1962 and 1963. Textile mill demand for wool will also be moderately less than in 1963.

Kingston Man, 7 Others Booked on Hunting Charges

Eight hunters, including a Kingston man, were booked Tuesday by troopers and State Conservation Department game protectors on violations of the state law, according to Trooper Craig Bremer of Lake Katrine.

The charges were lodged by Game Protector Henry Bernstein and Trooper Charles Bundschuh of the Kingston sub-station.

Gun in Car Charge

Troopers reported Clarence Mains, of 127 Pine Grove Avenue, was charged with having a loaded gun in his car, a violation of Section 245 of the Conservation law. The case is scheduled for Nov. 23 before Justice of the Peace Amiel E. Hess, Town of Shandaken.

Harry Biehle, 33, of Tompkins Cove, was charged with having no back patch, a violation of Section 212 of the Conservation law. He pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Edward W. France and was fined $5, troopers said.

John W. Weaver, 39, of New Paltz and Donald Weaver, 47, of Highland, were charged with trespassing, a violation of Section 367. Their cases were scheduled before Justice of the Peace Harry Bailey, Town of Denning at a later date.

Lawrence Di'Orio, 23, of Marlboro, was charged with having no consignee tag. The case was scheduled before Judge France.

William Stiefel, 38, of Oakdale, charged with having a tag that was not filled-in, pleaded guilty before Judge Hess and was fined $15, troopers said.

Marcus Bennett, 19, of Spring Valley, was fined $10 after pleading guilty before Justice of the Peace Robert Ferrigan, Town of Kingston, to a charge of having a tag that was not filled-in, according to Trooper Bremer.

Bazookas Flush Out Snipers in Caracas Section

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Police firing bazookas flushed snipers from buildings in downtown Caracas today as officials strove to quell pro-Communist violence that has left nearly 100 dead or wounded.

A woman was killed and six other persons, including a policeman, were wounded as fighting spread from the workers' suburbs to El Silencio, a district of modern business buildings.

Coming on the heels of Venezuela's worst day of terrorism Tuesday, the new casualties put the two-day toll at 20 killed and 76 wounded.

President Romulo Betancourt remained in his office throughout the night, directing the roundup of the terrorists by police, the army and national guard.

The number under arrest rose to 150, and police said most were Communist party members. Many were youths who wore black pants and red sweaters as a sort of uniform. Among those held were 40 persons seized by troops Tuesday night for sniping at traffic.

With the return of quiet at dawn, business houses reopened and traffic returned to the streets.

Merchants shut down because of telephoned threats and motorists stayed home Tuesday when Castroite-Communist opponents of Betancourt abruptly stepped up their campaign to unseat him and disrupt the Dec. 1 presidential elections.

Children's Program Scheduled at Library

Sara Mulligan, well-known Woodstock actress will present a program of folk stories at the Port Ewen Library story hour Friday 3:30 to 4:30 p. m.

The program, sponsored by the Junior League of Kingston is open to all children of the township. A crossing guard will be on duty at the library corner.

There will be no story hour Friday, Nov. 29 as it is part of the Thanksgiving recess. The next story hour will be held Dec. 6 at 3:30 p. m. Another Junior League program will be presented Dec. 13, concluding the story hours for the calendar year.

Purse-Snatching Is Charged to Po'keepsie Man

Accused of stealing a pocketbook containing about $1,285 from a downtown Poughkeepsie market Tuesday, Roosevelt Smith, 49, of 2 North Bridge Street, that city, was taken into custody on a first degree grand larcency charge.

Police said Smith was in Sam Laguzza's Meat Market at 4 North Clover Street, yesterday afternoon, when he allegedly snatched a pocketbook belonging to Mrs. Laguzza and fled from the store.

Authorities reported Smith ran directly to his apartment a block away, where he was apprehended by Patrolman Stanley Dahowski, who had followed the accused man. The pocketbook contained $1,285 consisting mostly of Christmas club checks from local banks.

Smith was held pending arraignment before City Judge Milton Haven.

PRESSURE PLUGS — Those wart-like appendages are nozzles welded on top of the No. 2 pressure vessel at the nuclear power station nearing completion at Sizewell, Norfolk, England. Beginning in 1966 the station is expected to produce 580,000,000 watts.

Haiti Toll Climbs

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Another weather disaster has hit impoverished Haiti.

The Public Health Department reported about 500 bodies had been recovered following floods and landslides last weekend in the northern part of the country. The department said the toll was expected to climb.

The northern regions had been spared by Hurricane Flora last month, which killed more than 5,000.

Check Marlboro Fire

Marlboro firemen were dispatched to the Sam Quimby Farm off Mt. Zion Road, that community, early Tuesday night, after fire was reported in a tenant house. It was reported the fire apparently originated in a bed room and caused extensive damage to the interior of the frame building before flames were extinguished. Milton firemen covered up at the Marlboro station.

Denning, UCCC Officer, Attends Deans Conference

Robert A. Denning, student personnel officer on the staff of the Ulster County Community College, attended the 1963 conference of the New York State Association of Deans and Guidance personnel Nov. 3-5 at Kiamesha Lake.

Fay L. Corey, president of the New York State Association, was chairman of the meeting. He is professor of the State University of New York at Cortland. The keynote address was given by Dr. Solon T. Kimball, professor of anthropology at Columbia University, who discussed societal and peer group influences on student behavior.

Approximately 1,200 members attended this year's conference, as well as a considerable number of deans and professors from many other states. A broad selection of addresses and panel sessions were headed by representatives from the N.Y.S. Department of Education, the U. S. Office of Education, the U. S. Department of Labor, and 16 leading educational institutions.

The conference centered on Society and the Student as a general theme, sub-topics being Social Change, Values and Morality, Counseling, College Admissions, Student Political Action, Changing Family Structure, Testing, Records and Ethics, and Curriculum. Seven papers were presented to the group.

The slate of officers elected for the ensuing year is headed by Dr. Louis Rabineau, vice president for Student Affairs at Pratt Institute, who will serve as new association president.

Students Seize Embassy

LONDON (AP) — More than 300 Iraqi students forced their way into the Iraqi Embassy here today and seized control of the entire building.

Almost all the embassy staff left as the students, chanting slogans against the Iraqi regime of President Abdel Salam Aref, moved in.

A student leader said: "We are staying in the embassy for as long as is necessary."

Five Miners Killed

Johannesburg, South Africa (AP) — Five African miners were killed and five others were missing today after a rock fall at a gold mine at Carletonville, near Johannesburg.

Fourteen miners were injured but not seriously, the mine owners reported.

Rescue teams began a search for the missing men. The owners said they might have escaped into a mine corridor.

$300 Reward Is Offered to Get Theatre Burglars

A reward of $300 is being offered for information leading to the apprehension and conviction of vandals that broke into the Colonie Summer Theater in Latham.

Eddie Rich, producer there, said he is offering the reward because more than $10,000 in damage and thefts occurred during the months of October and November .

He requests that if any attempts are made to dispose of the stolen property that contact be made with the Colonie Police Deparment.

The list of stolen property:

An air conditioner, a 30 drawer metal filing cabinet, electric fixtures, plumbing pipes, cable, fire extinguishers, electric power tools, a metal open cabinet, 24 metal aisle lights, theatre chairs (white metal frames with green canvas seat and backs), a green canvas canopy, brown canvass canopy, five suit cases, four light aluminum green and white plaid fibre chairs, about 200 yellow bulbs and wiring and sockets for same.

Jury Completed

A jury was completed Tuesday afternoon in County Court for trial of a second degree assualt charge against Scipio Boler Jr., Kingston, who allegedly became involved in an argument with his wife, Lorraine, and assaulted her with a knife. The act allegedly took place Dec. 5, 1962 when she was treated for severe cuts on her face and neck. It took 94 stitches to close the wounds. She was employed as a nurse's aide at the Ulster County Infirmary. Assistant District Attorney Joseph Torraca appears for the prosecution and Marshall Lipton appears for defendant.

A Turkish translation of the Koran was in the works for almost four decades before its publication in 1961.

Guidance Counselors Meet at Highland HS

The monthly meeting of the Ulster County Guidance Association was held Thursday at the Highland Junior-Senior High School.

Georgette Caldwell, from the Education Department, Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, presented the work of the agency to the association. A movie, To Live Again, explained the growth, services, and needs for rehabilitation of the vocationally handicapped. Miss Caldwell explained her function and the ways in which the school and the agency can work together.

President of the Ulster County Guidance Association, Thomas Benenati, conducted the business meeting. Evaluation of the recent Career Night was made by the group, and plans for future meetings were discussed.

The Asian Image No. 3: Dread of Red China

Fear Argument With Soviet May Drive Peking to Reckless Acts

EDITOR'S NOTE — How do the Asians who live under the shadow of Red China feel about that giant among nations? AP special correspondent William L. Ryan, who has just completed a swing through seven Asian nations, reports in the following dispatch, last of a series of three, that by and large Communist China is regarded with awe and dread.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

TOKYO (AP)—The image of Red China in Asia is that of a gigantic dragon which casts an ominous shadow over the whole continent.

Asian leaders take little comfort from the ideological warfare between Moscow and Peking. They do not expect that warfare to bring Red China to its knees.

Scoff at Invasion

"That is wishful thinking," said one highly placed informant. "It would be utterly ridiculous for Americans to rely on the notion that Red China is headed for collapse or anything like it."

Asian leaders scoff at the notion that the Nationalist Chinese on Formosa will ever be able to mount a successful invasion of the mainland. They look upon Red China as a fact of life which must be lived with. If they have any hope regarding China, it is that she will evolve some day into something less menacing to her neighbors. But it seems a dim hope.

Withdrawal of Soviet economic and military help from Red China hurt the Chinese. It caused severe shortages in some areas. But it did other things, too.

It forced the Chinese to go it alone, and that is what they are doing. It heightened Asian respect for the Chinese potential and even imparted some satisfaction that an Asian nation was able to stand up to a mighty power and defy it.

Report Recovery

Now the reports from the most reliable sources are that China, far from heading toward collapse, has made a recovery from her setbacks in the 1958-59 period. Indeed, many Japanese who have a special view of China all their own, insist that the Red Chinese are getting stronger all the time, despite Soviet pressure.

Leaders in Southeast Asia see the principal aim of Red China as stirring local civil wars. They do not view China as wanting outright conquest, but of seeking domination after total expulsion of American and Western influence, so that governments can be turned into helpless satellites.

In India, China is regarded as pure menace. India turned violently anti-Chinese after last year's border fighting with the Red Chinese.

Pakistan's regime seems to be trying to use China as a foil, playing footsie with Peking as a response to U.S. military aid to India. It does so cautiously. The Pakistani regime also fears the Chinese. President Mohammed Ayub Khan is not admired by the Chinese who have in the past called him an American puppet.

Feeling of Awe, Dread

A feeling of awe, coupled with dread, can be sensed in Southeast Asia. There—in nations which already have feelings of insecurity because of their large Chinese minorities — China is looked upon as a nation asserting the right to speak for all Asia.

They see China ready and able to expand, and these fears have become more pronounced since the Indian border fighting.

The Soviet-Chinese split reflects the ebb and flow of fears and prejudices all over Asia. The closer the nation to China, the more wary it is of arousing Chinese anger.

The contest for influence is spirited and open. It is clear that Red China is making known its view that the Russians, for all of their ownership of Siberia and vast slices of central Asia, are not an Asian but a European power.

Man Power Galore

Withdrawal of Soviet help set back some Chinese ambitions, including hopes for quick entry into the nuclear weapons club. But China has a standing army of 2.5 million men, backed by a labor corps of another million. In reserve are tens of millions more.

Thus, for Asians there is less comfort than worry in the Soviet-Chinese argument. The worry is that the argument may drive the Red Chinese into a reckless policy of coupling their national interests with their revolutionary cause.

College Reports Seminar Tapes Available on Loan

Tape recordings of each of the lectures given at the National Security Seminar here last Spring are now available locally on loan.

The Ulster County Community College, in cooperation with the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, obtained a complete set of recordings of all 32 lectures. Individual lectures are available on request from the library of the college located at 214 West Chestnut Street in Kingston. Requests should be addressed to the director of the Library, Gordon L. Kidd. The speakers and the subjects covered will be found in the Seminar program, copies of which are available at the Chamber of Commerce office.

At the time of the Seminar many individuals expressed the opinion they would like to hear individual lectures again or have an organization with which they are affiliated, include one or more of them in a meeting program.

It was pointed out by Dr. Dale B. Lake, president of the Ulster County Community College, when the above information was released today, that the college does not have equipment to loan or personnel to operate the necessary equipment. The recording machine and operator must be supplied by the organization or individual borrowing any one or more of the tape recordings. The tapes are being made available as another public service of the Ulster County Community College.

Paltz Barracks 3007 Will Meet on Sunday

There will be a joint meeting of the New Paltz Barracks 3007, Veterans of World War I of the U.S.A., and its Auxiliary Sunday, Nov. 24, at 7:30 p. m. at the American Legion Home in New Paltz on Route 32.

John Tyler, director of the Ulster County Veterans Agency, will be guest speaker and will give a talk on Veterans Benefits and Affairs. All World War I veterans and their wives, daughters or sisters are welcome. Refreshments will be served.

Correction on Fine

It was James Cave, 43, of 9 Joy's Lane, and not John Cave, of that address, who paid fines of $10 each on two traffic light charges in city court Tuesday.

LEGAL NOTICES

FAMILY COURT OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, COUNTY OF CHAUTAUQUA.

In the Matter of GRETCHEN ANN SLOCUM and WILLIAM THOMAS SLOCUM, Children under the age of eighteen years, alleged to be permanently neglected children.

Docket No. B-4-63
B-5-63

Summons

In the Name of the People of the State of New York.

TO: CONSTANCE P. FLEUGH
ADDRESS: 8 Wrentham Street, Kingston, New York (last known)

A petition having been filed in this Court, alleging that the above named children in the care of the Chautauqua County Welfare Department, the Petitioner, are permanently neglected children as defined by Article 6, Part 1 of the Family Court Act;

You are hereby summoned to appear before this Court at 59 East Fourth Street, Dunkirk, New York, on December 12, 1963, at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon of said day to show cause why the Court should not enter an order depriving you of all the rights of custody of said children and awarding custody of said children to the petitioning authorized agency as permanently neglected children as provided by law.

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that if said children are adjudged to be permanently neglected children and if custody is awarded to said authorized agency, said children may be adopted with the consent of said authorized agency, without further notice to you.

In the event of your default, the Court will hear and determine the petition, as provided by law.

Dated: November 6, 1963.

By Order of the Court
JOHN H. HALLENBECK
Clerk of Family Court
County of Chautauqua

To the taxpayers of the Kripplebush Fire District:

An election will be held on December 3, 1963, between the hours of 7 and 10 P. M. at the Kripplebush Firehouse to elect one Fire Commissioner to serve a term of five years. Nominations will be accepted by the secretary on or before November 30, 1963.

MILFORD VAN DEMARK
Secretary of Fire Commissioners

UCT HONORS GRAND COUNSELOR—At a banquet held honoring New York Grand Counselor George Wahl of the United Commercial Travelers of America speakers stressed what the organization does for retarded children and urged support of the project for November the month dedicated to helping those afflicted. Principals at the dinner in Deanie's at Woodstock were (seated l-r) Mrs. Kurt Butz, Mrs. Samuel Feldman, Mrs. George Wahl and Mrs. Dewey Logan; standing, David Gruberg, C. Lester Legg Jr., Kurt Butz, State Grand Counselor Wahl, Dewey Logan, H. Vance Hogan and Attorney Aaron E. Klein. (Sterling Studio photo)

Local UCT Has Dinner for State Counselor Wahl

Kingston Council 356, United Commercial Travelers of America honored George Wahl, grand counselor, State of New York, and Mrs. Wahl, at a dinner held at Deanie's Restaurant in Woodstock Saturday evening, Nov. 9. The dinner was attended by a large number of members and guests.

Aaron Klein, attorney at law and member of the local council, was toastmaster.

The dinner was opened with the Allegiance to the Flag and singing of the National Anthem. The Rev. Donald E. Hicks of the Dutch Reformed Church of Woodstock gave the invocation.

Kurt Butz, banquet chairman, welcomed the members and guests and a moment of silent prayer was observed for the late Past Grand Counselor Samuel Feldman.

Dewey Logan, senior counselor, gave a inspiring talk and mentioned the work the local council does for retarded children. He also stressed the importance of the members to attend the friendship dinners and to invite new members to join the UCT. Mr. Logan introduced his officers and executive board members, and expressed appreciation for the fine work the dinner committee did for this affair.

Mrs. Dewey Logan, senior counselor of Ladies Auxiliary 130 introduced her staff of officers and executive board members also past senior counselors, and present and past officers of the Grand Council. Mrs. Logan presented Mrs. Wahl with a corsage from the Kingston Auxiliary.

Grand Counselor Wahl principal speaker, spoke on the projects of the organization for retarded children, cancer, youth and many other worthy projects. U.C.T. was the first international Fraternity organization to offer a "helping hand" to the associations for retarded children in the United States nd Canada. Grand Counselor Wahl urged the members of the local council to cooperate with their officers and to invite new members to join the U.C.T. He expressed his gratitude to Ladies Auxiliary 130 in Kingston for the fine work they are doing.

UCT was founded in 1888. The Order of United Commercial Travelers has always returned to its members, in disability and death benefits, one of the highest per capita amounts of any major accident insurance society in America. Grand Counselor Wahl said there are 335,000 members now in the United States of America and Canada, and he hoped there will be a great gain in 1964. He covered many important subjects, also mentioned the Scholarships that have been sponsored.

Mr. Wahl informed the gathering that Charles Grummoned who has been critically ill is improving and sent his friendly "hello" to all.

Mr. and Mrs. Wahl were presented with a beautiful set of candlestick holders and candles of artistic design.

Julius Kirschner introduced J. J. Connerton, chairman of the Ulster County Chapter, New York State Association for Retarded Children and also other guests of the chapter who were present. Mr. Kirschner reminded the group of the picture to be shown Dec. 3 at the Community Theatre in Kingston proceeds for the retarded children.

Committee for the dinner consisted of Kurt Butz, chairman, Julius Kirschner, Robert Rhinehart, David Gruberg, Charles Ryan, Fred Lang, Claude Middaugh, C. Lester Legg Jr. and Louis Gerbon.

The Rev. Paul R. Mertzlufft of New Paltz, executive director of the Ulster County Chapter of Retarded Children, gave the benediction.

Pick Your City, New Offer for Army Enlistees

Young men qualifying for enlistment into the Army's Air Defense Command (ARADCOM) are being given their choice of assignments, Sergerant Edward Malenski of the Kingston Recruiting Office reports.

According to the sergeant, qualified young men may choose the city in which they will spend at least the first 14 months of their enlistment. He says that the list of cities they may choose from is a long one, and includes such places as Abilene, Tex., Boston, Mass.; Cleveland, Ohio; Key West, Fla.; Shreveport, La.; and San Francisco, Calif.

Under this plan, qualified applicants are assigned directly from their Army basic training units to the city of their choice. They will remain there for at least one year and two months, and while they are there they will be trained in either the missile or the electronic field.

Sgt. Malenski points out, however, that assignments to any given city are always limited—for example, during October there were only four openings in Detroit, Mich.; while Norfolk, Va., was limited to a single applicant—so he suggests that men interested in the opportunities offered by ARADCOM contact him as soon as possible. He may be reached by visiting his office at the Central Post Office.

Births

The city registrar recently recorded the following births:

Hardboard Production

During the past 30 years, Masonite Corporation has produced enough hardboard to build a walk four feet wide to the moon and back, plus waiting rooms, restaurants, and auditoriums at each end.

Covering old feeders and shelters with splinter-free, smooth Masonite Tempered Presdwood protects livestock from injury.

Bosco Is Named New Saugerties Head of Chamber

Officers for 1964 were unanimously elected Tuesday night at a meeting of the Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce at Schoentag's Colonial Tavern. Joseph Bosco Jr., was named president.

Other officers elected were: Francis J. Moran, first vice president; Robert Levintan, second vice president; Louis Montano, treasurer. N. A. Aaron, retiring president, was named director for three years.

The nominating committee comprised: Vincent Amrod, chairman; Andrew Vozdick, Franklin P. Clum Sr., and Myron Banks.

Bosco served as first vice-president this year.

Committees reported that 40 per cent of the $1,000 needed for the Christmas Lighting program, has been realized and area residents and business people were urged to send contributions to the Chamber of Commerce offices, so that the program as planned may be conducted.

Herbert Lachmann, chairman of the Christmas Lighting committee, and Joseph Bosco, co-chairman, reported that work of installing the strings of Christmas lights will begin Sunday, Nov. 24, and members and volunteers are urged to meet at 9 a. m. at the Hudson Valley Equipment Co., Ulster Avenue, to assist in the initial work.

Over 100 Hear Whalen's Talk at C of C Breakfast

A record attendance heard Richard J. Whalen, general manager of IBM Kingston, outline many details concerning the local plant at a membership breakfast meeting of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce this morning at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Over 100 persons were present.

Whalen reported that parts of five divisions of the International Business Machines Corporation, are located in Kingston, with the Data Systems Division, a strictly commercial branch, being the largest. They have approximately 4,700 employes and anticipate that this number will remain about the same in the future. The local plant does business with about 250 area subcontractors and suppliers. An increasing percentage of technical personnel is being employed here. The average age of all employes is 35, with an average of eight years of service and about 600 women are employed at the Kingston plant. A series of slides showing the products manufactured here were also shown.

Richard M. Kalish, chairman of the special breakfast committee, presided. Harry Rigby, president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, also gave a brief progress report of chamber activities and outline plans for a 1964 Program of Work. A series of membership breakfast meetings will be held during the winter season.

End Polishing Worry!

Save yourself the trouble of frequently polishing your brass fireplace accessories this year. Spray the shiny metal with a clear, non-yellowing varnish or laquer.

Foreign Policy, School Costs Are Topics for LWV

"Foreign Economic Policy" and "Financing Education" will be the topics under discussion at the November meeting of the League of Women Voters of Kingston. The meeting will be held in two sessions: Monday, November 25, at 8 p. m. in the Kingston Library and Tuesday, November 26, at 12:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Edward De Groff, Kingston. Complete programs will be presented at each meeting.

The Foreign Economic Policy Committee will present a panel discussion on Commodity Arrangements and Private Investment. Questions under consideration will be "Can Commodity Agreements alleviate the primary product problems of less developed nations?" and "What are the obstacles U. S. businessmen face in private investment in developing nations?"

The problems of the less developed nations are many. One major cause has been their economic dependence on one or two "primary products" such as oil, coffee or tin. Trade in primary products has not kept pace with that of other goods. Synthetics and substitutions are used, and there is a tendency towards miniaturization. The products are subject to a price-insensitive supply and demand.

Among the approaches to the problem are national measures, international commodity agreements, compensation and insurance schemes, private investment from foreign countries and direct foreign aid.

Also presented to the meeting will be a tape of an interview with David Bell, administrator of the Agency, for International Development, in which he discusses the following questions: Is the aid program worth it? What are other countries doing to finance development programs? Are the recipient nations helping themselves?

Chairman of the Foreign Policy Committee is Mrs. John Worley. Mrs. Jeremiah Sachs is co-chairman.

A review of the state program on "Financing Education" will be presented by Mrs. Edward De Groff, education chairman. The League of Women Voters of New York State believes that sharing of total approved costs should be the goal of the state's program of financing education. The League favors standards and safeguards to prevent wasteful spending, but considers necessary costs a joint responsibility of the state and the community.

Existence of the state contribution ceiling of $500 per child causes the most hardship on the districts making the greatest effort to educate their children; it places the burden of increased costs on the local tax base. Therefore, the League believes the ceiling should be raised.

Membership in the League, a nonpartisan organization is open to all women of voting age. Information may be obtained by writing League of Women Voters of Kingston, UPO Box 564, Kingston, N. Y. The public is invited to attend either meeting.

Church Women Plan Building Program, Supper

ACCORD — Now that the exterior as well as the interior of the Accord Methodist Church has been completed, the ladies of the WSCS are planning on a project to renovate and improve the church hall, located immediately next to the Church. All social activities of the Church are held here and eventually it is planned to hold Sunday school in this building when renovated.

Instead of holding their regular monthly meeting, the WSCS members invite all the members of the church, congregation and friends to participate in a pot luck supper Friday 6:30 p. m. at the church hall. Each family will bring a covered dish or dishes and place settings for each person. After supper there will be a film in connection with the WSCS program.

An offering will be received to defray expenses of the film and the balance will go toward the building fund.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When the Will Durants observed their golden wedding anniversary recently, they celebrated in typical style.

There was an intimate dinner for members of their immediate family. At 8:30 the following morning, the Durants were back in the 18th century.

For 33 years Will and Ariel Durant have been leading a monastic life as they trudged their way through the great sweep of man's history. Their goal—a 10-volume story of civilization from oriental beginnings to the fall of the Bastille—is almost in sight.

The eighth volume, "The Age of Louis XIV," has just been printed, and "The Age of Voltaire" is completed. Now the Durants are well into "Rousseau and Revolution," which will be completed three years hence.

Why will they end their journey through the ages at 1789?

"Because by the completion of the 10th volume, the senior member of this partnership will be 81," said Durant, a twinkling-eyed man with a fine head of white hair and a brush mustache. "By that time it can be expected that his faculties will have diminished."

This year the Durants allowed themselves a respite from their arduous task. He accepted an invitation from producer Samuel Bronston to come to Madrid and write a foreword for "The Fall of the Roman Empire." Although he has lived for many years scarcely a mile from Hollywood and Vine, this was his first connection with a movie.

"We took the assignment to see if Mr. Durant could take some of the spotlight away from the movie stars," said Mrs. Durant, a warm, vital woman of 65. "And I must say he did very well."

The Durants are again hard at work in the book-crammed, Spanish-style house in the Hollywood foothills.

They generally work separately in the mornings, he in an overstuffed chair with a writing board on which he makes laborious notes. Lunch is at 12:30 and in the afternoon they take a mile walk in the hills, followed by a steam bath. The afternoon's work is often a lively exchange of viewpoints on the assembled material. The evening is devoted to reading.

Pigs Get Ulcers

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The uncertainties of modern living are beginning to affect pigs, too.

Tadeusz Kowalczyk of the University of Wisconsin Department of Veterinary Science told the world Veterinary Congress in Hanover, Germany, recently that stomach ulcers in swine may be related to "psychosomatic stresses brought about by high pressure modern feeds and swine raising practices.

He said causes of animal ulcers could be similar to those in humans.

Just in Time

ANDOVER, Conn. (AP)—The new town building was constructed just in time.

The State Board of Health ruled that the 70-year-old Town Hall had to be closed because it had no sanitary facilities, after the outshouses burned down recently.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The touchy question of increasing U.S. trade with Eastern Europe's Communist nations runs into financial as well as political road blocks. Payment in gold or goods or credit?

Many of America's allies have been increasing this trade right along, often ignoring they've been able to get payment for their exports by increasing their imports from the Communist bloc — items that U.S. importers don't want or can't buy—or by taking sporadic offerings of Russian gold, something the United States could use but rarely sees.

Reasons Are Clear

The political reasons for holding down trade are clear: Strategic goods from the United States would build up Communist war potential, and other goods might build up its economic health and let it put more effort into military output.

In 1962 we exported $105 million worth of goods to Russian satellites in Eastern Europe (this exludes the U.S.S.R. itself and Yugoslavia and Albania), and imported $62.5 million worth. In the same period West Germany was exporting $719 million worth, importing $668 million worth, and Britain exporting $369 million and importing $442 million. Japanese and Canadian exports also have risen steadily in recent years.

The principal items that the United States exports to the satellites and gets back are tabulated by economists at the Chase Manhattan Bank, New York, as follows:

How They're Swappped

Poland chiefly takes American grains and sends meat products. East Germany takes tobacco and sends furs. Hungary prizes our industrial machinery and we take their wood manufactures. Bulgaria and Rumania are markets for our pharmaceuticals, and from Bulgaria we import spices and from Romania glass products. (Other items are traded with each nation in smaller proportions).

The United States has legal restrictions on this Eastern European trade. The chief one is a ban on goods classed as strategic that might be used in an arms buildup. An export license is required for any goods ruled nonstrategic.

Not Tested Yet

But a credit restriction goes back to 1934 when Congress banned private loans to a government in default in payment on its obligations to the U.S. government. Only recently has Washington ruled that this act doesn't apply to "normal commercial credit terms." Neither the law nor the ruling has been tested in the courts.

Nations in default, in addition to the Soviet Union itself, include Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary, Poland and Romania.

The Communist bloc's currencies aren't convertible, so that trade has to be conducted on strictly bilateral terms or through complicated triangular deals.

And payment in Russian gold is a now-and-then thing.

Folies to Show Here

NEW YORK (AP) — The "Folies Bergere," which began in Paris in 1869, is to have its first Broadway showing this spring.

The producing team of Robert Purdom and Stephen W. Sharmat plan to transfer a new edition which opens in Paris in April, to a Times Square playhouse in May.

Parts of Asia were hit hardest by the 1963 drought. More than 300,000 Pakistanis were forced to abandon their homes in West Pakistan to seek food and water.

Terror Is Ended After 19 Deaths In Caracas City

By PAUL FINCH
Associated Press Staff Writer

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Venezuela's worst day of terrorism in years ended Tuesday night with 19 persons dead in Caracas, 70 wounded and more than 100 terrorists arrested.

Army units in armored cars and National Guardsmen were called out as the Castroite-Communist opponents of President Romulo Betancourt intensified their campaign to disrupt the Dec. 1 presidential elections.

Increased terrorism also was reported from cities in the interior.

Many of the casualties in Caracas were bystanders caught in the crossfire between government forces and terrorist snipers. The dead included a 35-year-old terrorist whose legs were tattooed with a hammer and sickle.

Firing centered in the workers' districts on the outskirts of the city.

Unions defied a general strike order from the Red-line Armed Forces of National Liberation. But shootings, bombings and telephone threats to merchants had a paralyzing effect in the capital.

Schools for American children were closed. There were no reports of American casualties.

Betancourt hopes to become Venezuela's first democratically elected president to serve out a five-year term. His term ends next March.

The constitution prohibits Betancourt from succeeding himself. But his Democratic Action party's candidate, Raul Leoni, is virtually assured of defeating his six opponents in the presidential race.

4 Dairy Groups Ready to Fight on Pay for Hauling

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Four major dairy organizations are preparing to close ranks against a proposal to charge farmers in the New York-New Jersey milkshed for hauling milk in bulk from farm to dealer plant.

Three of the organizations expressed interest Tuesday in strategy proposed by the Dairymen's League, the largest marketing cooperative in the New York-New Jersey market.

The league has announced it would not levy a hauling charge on milk it carries for its members and would not sell members' milk to anyone who did.

The plan is designed to deprive dealers of increased revenues from a proposed federal program that would enable dealers to negotiate with cooperatives and individual producers for a service charge. The charge would be as much as 10 cents for each hundredweight (46.5 quarts) of milk collected from farmers' bulk tanks.

A producers' referendum is under way now on the federal plan. Ballots must be in the office of the market administrator by midnight Monday.

It is expected that producers will approve the amendment because they fear that rejection would mean cancellation of the entire market order.

The market order sets minimum prices dealers must pay for milk.

Farmers are voting on the entire marketing order as amended. The U.S. secretary of agriculture has the power to rescind the order if the amended version is turned down.

The organizations hope to minimize or nullify the effects of the amendment.

Three other major dairy federations — the Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency, the Mutual Federation of Independent Cooperates and the Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative — said they would meet Nov. 27 with the Dairymen's League to discuss strategy.

The organizations are opposed to the federal plan mainly on financial grounds.

Deaths

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Richard L'Estrange, 73, movie-television official and one of Mack Sennett's original "Keystone Kops," died Tuesday.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) —Mrs. Anna Davis Johnson, 79, mother-in-law of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., died Tuesday.

CONSHOCKEN, Pa. (AP) — Dr. William E. Brandt, 72, former college president, sports writer, public relations executive and for 10 years director of the National Baseball League's Service Bureau, died Monday.

TORONTO, Ont. (AP) — Donald Summerville, 48, mayor of Toronto, died Tuesday after suffering a heart attack while playing in an exhibition hockey game.

O'ER THE WAVES—Ship and airplane combine in the Navy's newest vessel, the 22½-ton Hydroskimmer, fabricated of aluminum. The largest vehicle of its type in the United States, the 65-foot-long SKMR-1 will cruise at 70 knots while supported a foot and a half over the surface of the ocean (not grass, as shown in picture) by a cushion of air. It will be operated by a crew of two and will carry a five-ton payload on an open cargo deck.

Slap at Sheepishness

NEW YORK (AP)—Christian laymen are not just "flocks of sheep" to be guided by clergymen "shepherds," the Rev. Dr. Frederick K. Wentz of Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg Va., writes in a new book, "The Layman's Role Today" (Doubleday). He added: "Sheep are notoriously dumb . . . they exist primarily to be shorn by their shepherds."

It's Good Training

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Officials of Ohio's State Highway Patrol are proud of the organization's thorough training program for young patrolmen.

They have found that after about four years, a patrolman becomes a well-rounded police officer. To their despair, however, they have found that the program, along with a relatively low pay scale, is responsible for a great many resignations.

Insurance companies scouting for trained accident investigators are waving job offers in front of patrolmen in intensive recruiting programs, and a record number of resignations — perhaps as many as 75—is expected this year.

Capitol News In Brief

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

KENNEDY TRIP: Accompanied by his wife, President Kennedy plans to make five speeches and attend two receptions during a busy "nonpolitical" trip to Texas Thursday and Friday.

The Kennedys will spend Friday night at the ranch of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson at Johnson City — near Austin.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said he expects Mrs. Kennedy to attend most of the President's engagements.

On Thursday, Kennedy is scheduled to fly to San Antonio for a speech, then proceed to Houston to address a testimonial dinner that night for Rep. Albert Thomas, D-Tex.

After the dinner, Kennedy will fly to Fort Worth for a breakfast speech Friday. He also plans a mid-day address at Dallas and an evening speech to a $100-a-plate Democratic fund - raising dinner at Austin.

While in Austin, the President will attend two receptions, one by the Democratic State Committee and the other by Gov. John Connally.

The Kennedys plan to return to Washington sometime Saturday.

Salinger said the Democratic National Committee was picking up the tab for the Austin leg of the trip, since that includes avowedly political activities.

BUDGET: New federal spending will show a smaller increase than in recent years when the new budget is sent to Congress in January, Budget Director Kermit Gordon predicts.

Gordon declined to estimate the fiscal 1965 budget in an appearance before the Senate Finance Committee Tuesday but said it would contain "a very modest increase."

Administration sources have indicated it might be in the $101-billion to $102-billion range, compared with the $98.8-billion budget President Kennedy sent Congress last January.

Gordon testified in support of the House - passed bill to establish a temporary $315-billion debt ceiling for the remainder of this fiscal year. The present $309-billion limit expires Nov. 30.

PUBLIC WORKS: The House has passed and sent to the Senate a public works appropriations bill that is $285,630,600 less than President Kennedy asked.

The $4,276,116,400 measure won passage by a lopsided 359-

It finances river and harbor and flood control projects, the reclamation program, the Atomic Energy Commission and other public activities. More than half the money will go to the Atomic Energy ommission.

Modena

MODENA—The Modena Fire Department is sponsoring a spaghetti supper, Wednesday evening, Nov. 20, at the firehouse. Servings will be at 6 and 8 p. m. with a nominal charge. Proceeds will be for the department treasury.

A number of local people attended the annual turkey supper and dance held Saturday evening at the Plattekill Grange Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. William Davis of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Traver of Rhinebeck, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Carey of Pleasant Valley, were recent visitors of their aunt, Mrs. Fred Bernard, here.

A junior choir has been organized in the Modena Methodist Church. Their initial appearance will be made at an early date. Members are Judith Wager, Mary, Ann and Susan Abbott, Francesca MacDowell, Kim Nantz, Ronald West, James and Wayne Cook, and Douglas Nantz. Mrs. Arthur Paltridge is director.

Mrs. Fred Bernard and Miss Arlene Bernard were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Daley and Thomas Daley, at Ireland Corners, Wednesday evening, when Arlene's birthday was

Summon Baker's Partner Widow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators investigating the steaming Robert G. Baker case have called the widow of one of his partners as their first outside witness.

Mrs. Gertrude Novak will be questioned Thursday at a closed session of the Senate Rules Committee, Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., announced.

Death Ruled Suicide

Mrs. Novak's husband Alfred, whose death March 3, 1962, was ruled a suicide, was among Baker's partners in the Carousel Motel at Ocean City, Md. She will be the committee's first witness other than Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del.

Williams has supplied the committee with information he gathered in a one-man investigation before Baker resigned as secretary to the Senate Democratic majority Oct. 7 after questions of possible conflict of interest were raised about his outside business interests.

Meanwhile, Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., charged Tuesday night that Baker had a hand in keeping him from a choice committee assignment in 1961.

Yarborough told a newsman that after he lost his bid for a seat on the Judiciary Committee he learned from friends that Baker had told some people:

"We couldn't afford to let Yarborough have that seat. He would then be in a position to control Texas' judicial patronage, or would be in a position to prevent Lyndon from controlling it."

Never Trusted Bobby

The Senator understood that by "Lyndon" Baker meant Vice President Johnson, who has not always seen eye-to-eye with his fellow Texan.

Did Yarborough ask Baker about the report? "No, I never asked Bobby Baker anything," he said. "I never trusted him. It wasn't the first time I'd had experience with him."

Some other liberal senators have also complained that Baker, a protege of Johnson, favored the conservative Southern bloc in the Senate.

Today in History

Today is Wednesday, November 20th, the 324th day of 1963. There are 41 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1934, the United Daughters of the Confederacy met in New York City for their 40th annual convention. It was the first time the organization had ever met north of the Mason-Dixon line.

On this date

In 1759, an English squadron defeated the French at Quiberon Bay to complete the naval humiliation of France.

In 1805, Ludwig van Beethoven's only opera, "Fidelio," was performed for the first time.

In 1893, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the Great Lakes and their connecting waters were high seas.

In 1943, U.S. troops began assaults on Japanese positions on Makin and Tarawa in the Pacific during World War II.

In 1949, the Grand Army of the Republic's last national convention was held at Indianapolis site of the organization's first convention in 1886.

Ten years ago — Texas oil man Hugh Roy Cullen gave $2.25 million to the University of Houston following its 37-7 upset football victory over Baylor University.

Five years ago — A federal judge in New York prohibited a move by Bethlehem Steel Co. to absorb the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co.

One year ago—President Kennedy issued an executive order banning racial and religious discrimination in housing built or purchased with federal aid.

In 1920, France buried an unknown soldier beneath the Arc de Triomphe in Paris. A perpetual flame was lighted over the tomb.

The U.S. Postal Savings System was authorized by Congress in 1910. It was established partly as an aftermath to the financial panic of 1907 and partly to attract depositors from those who lacked confidence in the banks, particularly the many immigrants who sent their savings to institutions in Europe.

With One Twirl

ROSE HILL, Kan., (AP) — A twirling baton caused sparks to fly and lights to go out in about half of this southern Kansas community.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Both CBS and NBC have broadcast hour - long specials this season about the glory that was Greece and the beauty that it is now.

Several weeks back, a CBS show with Alfred Lunt and Lynne Fontanne emphasized the birth of the drama during the fifth century before Christ, an era that fairly exploded with genius. NBC's program Tuesday night was more interested by the art and architecture of the same period.

The NBC show's color photography was delicate and beautiful. The narration by actor Trevor Howard was in a low key.

"Greece, the Golden Age," fashioned tenderly and lovingly, would have been a better bet on a winter Sunday afternoon. Somehow an actor reading excerpts of "Oedipus Rex," accompanied by views of the Parthenon and Delphi, fit a lazy Sunday better than a week night spot normally occupied by Richard Boone.

Tuesday night's "Mr. Novak" on NBC was heralded as a sharp change of pace. It was to be a comedy. But there wasn't a chuckle in the hour — a moralising tale suggesting that the public's attitude toward its teachers is something less than friendly.

As this series continues it becomes obvious that its creators are hammering on a single theme — there is no such thing as a bad teacher or a bad pupil, just bad or ignorant parents.

Practically every week, noble, dedicated, underpaid Mr. Novak has to take some abuse from some ill - mannered father. Usually at the end, the parents apologize.

Teachers, I understand, approve of the series. No wonder.

ABC's "withdrawal" of the "Jerry Lewis Show" after 13 programs was not much of a surprise to people who had been watching its low ratings, but it must be a bitter blow to the comedian.

He was so sure he could slip a weekly two - hour live television program into his schedule without any problems or even spending much time on it.

Lewis was asked repeatedly last summer, "What are you going to do for two hours?" He invariably smiled wisely, waggled a finger — and suggested we just wait and see.

After a couple of pretty dismal shows it's obvious he ducked the question because he didn't know the answer.

Recommended tonight: "That War in Korea," NBC special, 7:30-9 (EST) — Richard Boone narrates a documentary on the 10th anniversary of the cease - fire agreement; "Festival Frenzy," ABC, special, 10-11 — a look at the numerous tourist - attracting European festivals.

Holiness Compared

NEW YORK (AP)—The Western and Eastern worlds have "always applied the same principles to what constitutes holiness," but "have done so with differing emphasis," Donald Attwater writes in a new book of short biographies, "Saints of the East" (P. J. Kenedy & Sons).

Zoning, Planning Topics for Area Builders Nov. 26

A panel discussion on zoning and planning abuses in the mid-Hudson Valley and their effect on home building will be the highlight of a special meeting of the Home Builders Association of the Hudson Valley Tuesday, Nov. 26. The meeting will be a dinner meeting and will be held at Nick Beni's Anchor Inn, Arlington.

Sam Hankin, president of the Hudson Valley Home Builders Association reports the problem of local zoning and planning is of such great importance to builders that supervisors or mayors and chairmen of local planning and zoning boards from the municipalities where the greatest area growth is taking place will be invited to the meeting as guest of the Home Builders. Area industrial leaders also are being invited to the meeting due to the importance of adequate housing to the welfare of employes of local industry.

A report entitled A Study of Local Government Restrictions Affecting Home Building in New York State was presented at the annual convention of the New York State Home Builders Association last month. The report, written by Raymond M. Urquhart Village Administrator of Bronxville, has gained a great deal of attention in the home building industry and in builders' trade journals. Urquhart will be present at Tuesday's meeting and will be one of five panelists discussing the problem.

Appearing on the same panel with Urquhart will be E. Eugene Ellish of Rockland County, president of the New York State Home Builders Association; Henry H. J. Heisenbuttel, Arlington, director of the Dutchess County Planning Board; Carl J. Mays, Cornwall, Planning Director of Orange County and Albert E. Cooper, a Monroe builder and a director of the Hudson Valley Home Builders Association.

Builders throughout the State hope that Urquhart's report and Urquhart's standing as a public administrator will strengthen their case for zoning reforms. Hankin said that builders hope his findings will persuade the state to act on zoning abuses. A year ago Chairman Frank C. Moore of the State Office for Local Government told builders: "If you can document your case (that zoning is holding down home building), we will take action."

Due to the large number of guests that are expected to attend the meeting, Tuesday's affair is expected to be the largest meeting in the history of the Hudson Valley Home Builders Association. Because of the nature of the subject and the wide effect of zoning and planning on the public interest, Hankin has also invited editors of area newspapers and managers of Hudson Valley radio stations to be guests at the meeting.

Four for Michigan

ANN HARBOR, Mich. (AP)—The Association of Producing Artists is doing a four-play schedule for its resident repertory stint this winter at the University of Michigan.

Lined up are "Much Ado About Nothing," "Right You Are If You Think You Are," "The Lower Depths" and a twin bill, "Scapin" and "A Phoenix Too Frequent." Joining the company for the series are Nancy Marchand, Joanna Roos and Jan Farrand.

Various Reasons Given

Want Money Disclosures To Keep Congress Honest

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republicans' Senate leader, Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, is completely against any proposed law to compel members of Congress to disclose their incomes and assets.

He gave a very odd reason. He said he did not come to Congress to be a "second - class citizen." He didn't say that others who have to reveal their financial interests, like top government officials, are second class.

But Sen. Maurine Neuberger, D-Ore., pointed out:

When Cabinet members and other executive appointments come up for Senate approval, before they can have their new job, they are forced to disclose their investments and "we treat them as if we were going to crucify them."

Members of both parties in Congress — particularly Dirksen's fellow - senator from Illinois, Paul Douglas, a Democrat, have repeatedly called on Congress to approve a disclosure law on itself.

Two days ago so did Dirksen's opposite number, Mike Mansfield of Montana, leader of the Senate Democrats. But Dirksen said "I won't compromise an inch on this."

It sifts down to a case of "who policies the policeman?" since members of Congress vote on measures involving business interests in which many of them have major or minor holdings.

A number of events in recent months, at least one of them sensational, has given added attention to the demands for a disclosure law.

But also involved is the question of ethical conduct, which Congress expects and demands from officials in the executive branch of government.

Last month Robert G. Baker, who began as a Senate page boy and wound up as secretary to the Senate Democrats with a salary of almost $20,000, quit when his Democratic bosses decided to question him.

This happened when a vending machine company sued him and the press not only found out about it but about a lot of Baker's other financial activities which seemed to extend across the country and down to Haiti.

From these stories Baker, now 35, looks like a tycoon. A Senate committee is investigating him.

In June former Rep. Frank W. Boykin, D-Ala., and former Rep. Thomas F. Johnson, D-Md., were convicted on conflict of interest and conspiracy charges in connection with a savings and loan company.

This month Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., a member of the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, acknowledged he helped a company get a favorable tax ruling from the government and then invested $2,300 in the company's stock which is now worth $27,000.

More recently a congressional delegation to a NATO meeting in Paris took the head waiter of the House restaurant along as a messenger. Along with them he got a free trip on a military plane and had most of his hotel and meals paid overseas out of counterpart funds.

Years ago Douglas headed a Senate committee which proposed that Congress vote to set up a commission on ethics in government and that all members of Congress and govern-employes making above a fixed sum in salary be compelled to disclose their income, assets and all dealings in securities and commodities and on a yearly basis. That was in 1951.

Douglas since has repeated his call for this. So have others, in one form or another.

They gave various reasons for wanting disclosures but they can be summed up this way: to preserve public confidence and, although they didn't phrase it this way, to keep Congress honest.

Detective License Lost Over Payrolls

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Th state has revoked the license of a Manhattan private detective agency convicted of padding watchmen's payrolls on state highway construction jobs.

Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo announced Tuesday the revocation of the license of Sentinel Investigation Service of New York City.

Lomenzo said that Joseph C. Page, president of Sentinel, had pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny, second degree, and that the company had been convicted of grand larceny and conspiracy.

A prison sentence of 2½ to 5 years for Page was suspended and he was placed on probation. The company was fined $5,000.

Man Goes Down Drain Following Spat With Spouse

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A Rochester man went down the drain Tuesday after a fight with his wife.

Ralph Harris, 40, was discovered in a 25-foot-deep manhole. A supervisor for the City Water Works was inspecting a water main when he came across Harris at the bottom of the manhole.

"All I want is a little sleep," Harris said.

While the supervisor was calling police, Harris climbed out of the manhole and fell asleep next to a tree nearby.

When police arrived, Harris told them he had had a fight with his wife and "wanted to get away from her for awhile."

One More Won't Hurt

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Many days and 300 miles away from Boston, the woman could not forget the sight of the cruelly mistreated kitten at the Old North Church.

Mrs. Harold Becraft of Utica recently visited the famous church.

In the courtyard, she made friends with a skinny stray kitten. The animal fled, however, when a boy kicked it. Mrs. Becraft could not forget the animal.

She phoned the Animal Rescue League in Boston and the organization found the kitten. Mrs. Becraft is having it shipped to her home — which already houses cats, monkeys, rabbits, birds, dogs, a racoon and a chipmunk.

Mrs. Becraft is employed by the Humane Society.

Buffalo Man Is Killed Deer Hunting

ELLICOTTVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — A 37-year-old Buffalo man was accidentally shot and killed Tuesday while deer-hunting with friends near this Cattaraugus County village.

Sheriff's Deputies said Robert J. Lovrie was standing atop a small hill when he was hit in the chest by a shotgun blast.

Hunting companions told deputies they were below Lovrie attempting to flush out deer from a wooded area when one of the animals ran up the hill.

Deputies said Charles J. Rogers, 42, of Buffalo, a member of the hunting party, fired at the deer but hit Lovric.

A certificate of accidental death was issued by a coroner.

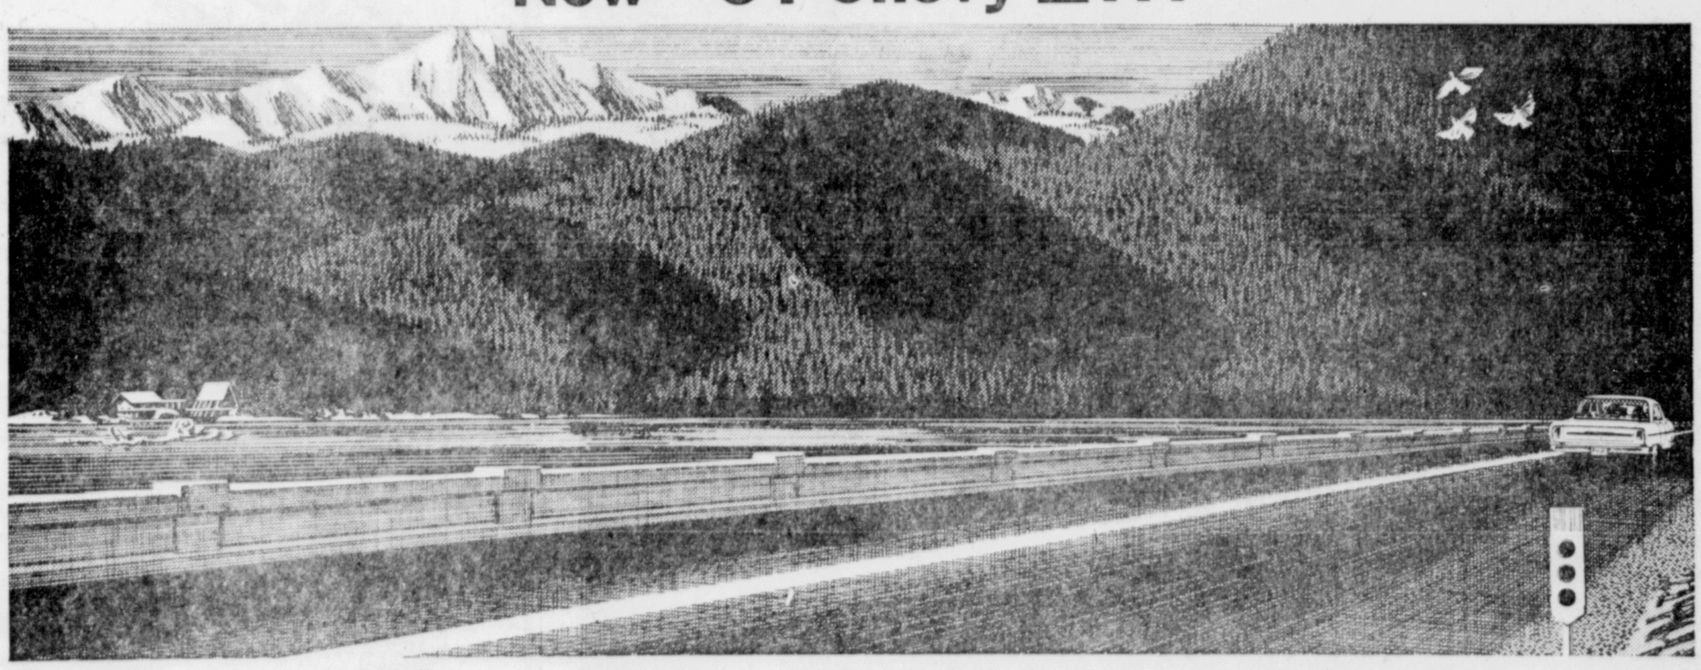
Now—'64 Chevy II...



with a V8 engine

Now you see it. Now you don't. When a Chevy II does that kind of disappearing act you know without looking twice: It's a '64 with a V8 engine.

It's available for the first time this year along with a choice of three other engines—the standard 4 (in 100 Series sedans), the standard 6 and a new 155-hp 6.* (And all of them, you'll be happy to know, maintain their high spirits on modest amounts of regular gasoline.)

You can take this V8 through the gears most any way you choose—with personal encouragement from a 4-speed shift* if you like.

But the changes that have come over this new Chevy II aren't by any means confined to what happens when you slip into the driver's seat.

There are new styling features like the tasteful grille design and trim accents, for instance. And the larger self-adjusting brakes that further reduce upkeep on a car that already has a reputation of coming about as close to perpetual motion as anything on four wheels can get.

The place to get the full details on the '64 is your Chevrolet dealer's. And after you've got them, we hope you'll attend to one further detail yourself. Drive it.

Ex-Psychologist Arrested Again On Morals Count

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP)—For the second time this month, a former high school psychologist has been arrested on morals charges.

Calvin W. Mosher, 37, was arrested Monday at his home in Verona, near Rome, on a warrant charging him with second-degree sodomy, State Police said Tuesday night.

Mosher waived examination before Justice of the Peace John Shene of Lake Placid and was ordered held in Essex County Jail in $2,500 bail.

The charge stemmed from a ski trip here last winter by Mosher and students at Camden Central School, where he was employed. Mosher is alleged to have made immoral advances to a youth at a motel here, troopers said.

Mosher had been arrested earlier this month on a charge of first-degree sodomy stemming from an alleged incident involving a 10-year-old boy at the school. He was free in $3,500 bail in that case, pending action by the Oneida County grand jury.

Mosher later resigned his school post.

The wide sweep elbow on the ground is an exhibition sample of those specially designed for this installation by Armco Steel Corp., of Middletown, Ohio. The vent to the surface allows access to the pipe and circulating fan buried ten feet below the surface. (Freeman photo)

Professor Loses Patience During Explosion Probe

MONTREAL (AP) — Roland Haumont lost his patience last night when a witness at a fire commissioner's inquiry contradicted his previous testimony.

The inquiry is being held into the cause of an explosion Oct. 20 in Haumont's Montreal home. His wife and two of their three children were killed.

Haumont, an assistant professor of French at Harpur College in Binghamton, N.Y., was injured in the blast and is being held by the police as a witness.

Mrs. Marie Morin of Abercorn, Que., owner of the Haumont home, testified she was certain that plumbers had removed all propane gas pipes from within the building.

Haumont, sitting in a wheelchair, slammed one of his two wooden canes against the arms of the chair and later slapped the table in front of him.

He repeated his earlier testimony that there were two such propane tanks and pipes leading into his basement when he last checked them in August.

The inquiry continued today.

Fears Weak Law Can Ruin Desegregation

KIAMSEHA LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — "Desegregation can be destroyed by legislation," says The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. "It would be tragic if a strong civil rights bill were not passed at this session (of Congress)."

King, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conferend, spoke Tuesday night at the 50th anniversary convention of the United Synagogue of America. The organized branch of conservative Judaism presented him with its Solomon Schechter Award, named after its founder.

Harvard's Catholic Prof

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Rev. A. L. Gabriel, a Roman Catholic authority on medieval education, has been named guest professor of Roman Catholic studies at Harvard University for the 1963-'64 academic year. He was granted a leave of absence from his post as director of the Medieval Institute of the University of Notre Dame.

Farming Engineers See Heat Used From Earth

Ulster County furnished two points of interest for visits this month by the New York Farm Electrification Council. The Council, which consists of agricultural engineers at Cornell University and farm representatives of the various electric utilities serving New York farmers change the site of their annual meeting each year so they can visit projects of interest.

They visited the ultra-modern poultry farm belonging to Harry Tapper in the Mettacahonts area. Here, in a windowless house, some 60,000 Leghorn laying hens produce top quality fresh eggs. Electricity provides the energy for lighting, feeding equipment and ventilation, which is fully automated.

They also visited the home of P. M. Sturges, heat recovery specialist and developer of the Thriftchanger, at Stone Ridge. This house is partially heated by a heat pump which uses the earth as a heat source. The system is unique in that air is used as a collecting medium. A fan circulates air through a loop 300 feet in circumference of corrugated steel pipe, 30 inches in diameter, buried ten feet below the earth's surface. A refrigeration coil is placed in its path and the heat thus extracted is delivered to a condensing coil in a warm air space heater. The hot compressor discharge also heats domestic hot water through a heat exchanger called the Thriftchanger. Since the electricity used by the compressor reappears as heat in the domestic hot water, at times of big demand for hot water, the earth heat is delivered to the space heater on a virtually energy-free basis.

Sturges pointed out that not only is the system reversible in summer for air conditioning, but constitutes a break-through in the heating ability of the kilowatt-hour. Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. has donated watt-hour meters to help Sturges check on his system. At Sturges' suggestion, Cornell University, with the cooperation of Armco Steel Corp. has buried a four hundred foot length of such pipe to settle certain engineering and economical questions. The first such pipe for heating and cooling purposes was buried on the Martin Russak farm at High Falls to air condition an animal shelter for laying hens in 1957.

Burglars Lose Out

CORNELIA, Ga. (AP) — It cost some bungling burglars at least $92 when they broke into the Cornelia Bank.

Police Chief J. G. Davenport said Tuesday the burglars chopped a hole in the bank roof to gain entrance, but failed to reach any of the money.

They not only didn't gain by their efforts, but they dropped a roll of bills amounting to $92 and left behind a bottle half-filled with whisky.

Start of Fresh Relationship

New Approach Likely In Bonn-Paris Talks

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS (AP)—When Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany comes to Paris Thursday to see President Charles de Gaulle, he will be starting a fresh relationship, like a new kid in a school, or a recently arrived neighbor in the block.

Switch in Welcome

The chummy mood that has been built up between France and Germany in the past five years has been the fruit of a warm and friendly contact between De Gaulle and Konrad Adenauer. Now, with Adenauer out, and Erhard in, there is bound to be a new approach — and perhaps a vastly different result.

The change will be apparent the minute Erhard steps off the train. He will be met by Premier Georges Pompidou and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, a correct welcome by protocol standards. But it represents a switch, because De Gaulle on several occasions went out of his way to greet Adenauer at the airport, stretching protocol, since De Gaulle is a chief of state and the German chancellor a chief of government.

Adenauer and De Gaulle used to do their most effective work in man-to-man sessions without even an interpreter present. De Gaulle and Erhard will meet three times Thursday and Friday but they will be alone at only one of these meetings. Ministers and advisors will attend the other two.

Tougher Coordination

This does not mean that De Gaulle and Erhard will not push ahead with the French-German cooperation treaty, which calls for periodic consultations at the upper echelons. But meshing of thinking and coordination of policies may be more difficult than in the past.

Erhard may be more outspoken than Adenauer in airing the differences between the two nations — and when he does speak out he will be running head - on into some of De Gaulle's most cherished concepts. Adenauer tended to skirt areas of disagreement to seek possibilities for accord.

Hand in Glove

NEW YORK (AP)—Down-to-earth engineers at Honeywell have fond a way to reach into "space" by simply thrusting one arm into a pressure suit glove attached to a small plexiglass vacuum chamber. The unit aids engineers who have never experienced the handicap of wearing a pressurized spacesuit yet must design equipment to be used by space-suited astronauts.

Basutoland's only industries are a small brick factory, mission printing presses and a few handicraft shops. Its one university is operated by Roman Catholic missionaries.

A POPULAR ENSEMBLE—The Singing Sisters of Mount St. Mary's College have made a best-selling record of popular tunes. The Roman Catholic nuns cut the record in an effort to raise funds for a residence building at the Newburgh, N.Y., institution.

Cites Price-Fix Cause of Higher N.Y. Liquor Cost

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The cost of package liquor is higher in New York State than in most other places because of price fixing, a University of Buffalo educator has charged.

Dr. Simon Rootenberg, dean of the School of Business Administration, told the Moreland Commission on the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law Tuesday that consumers receive no benefits from the added cost.

He said elimination of price-controls would lower package-store prices, which would lead to increased sales but not necessarily increased consumption.

The commission, in its one-day hearing, also heard testimony from a State Liquor Authority official who said he favored unlimited licensing of package liquor stores and lifting the requirement that every tavern serve food.

Earl Martin of Buffalo, a deputy commissioner, said many places "would be out of business" if the latter requirement were strictly enforced.

Killed in Crash

OAKFIELD, N.Y. (AP)—Earl Simonds, 72, of Middleport, was killed Tuesday when his automobile collided with a truck near this Genesee County community.

Woman Declared Sane, Will Face 1st Degree Murder

CANTON, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Myrtle Harvey, a patient in a state mental hospital, was declared sane and will stand trial on a charge of first-degree murder in the shooting of her husband.

Mrs. Harvey, mother of four, was committed to Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane last December after psychiatric tests.

She is charged with shooting her husband, Harold, 40, on Nov. 1, 1962. Detectives quoted Mrs. Harvey as saying her husband had threatened to kill her because he had spent all his money on her medical bills.

She was indicted last November by a St. Lawrence County grand jury.

Dist. Atty. Charles Bowers said Mrs. Harvey would be returned from the hospital in Beacon for trial.

Bookie Confident

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A bookie is giving odds that off-track betting on horse races will be approved by the State Legislature.

To back his odds, the bookie sent a letter addressed to the "Commissioner of Licenses, Alfred E. Smith Office Building, Albany," in which he applies for a license.

He wants to be the first in the state to make it legal.

Four Are Sentenced For Killing Pet Deer

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — Four men have been sentenced after admitting they slit the throat of a pet deer and stole the carcass.

Three went to jail Tuesday. The fourth was fined $10.

State police said the men entered a pen at St. Nick's Motel around midnight Sunday and stole a Dama-Dama Indian deer, used for show purposes at the motel. The animal was valued at more than $300.

The men were charged with petit larceny. They told Justice of the Peace Karl Griebsch they wanted the meat.

Melvin LaVair, 21, was sentenced to 180 days in Franklin County jail. Lionel Bushey, 22, and Robert LaVair, 22, each received 90-day jail sentences. Donald LaVair, 33, was fined $10.

All live in Saranac Lake.

Killed by Corn Picker

DUNDEE, N.Y. (AP)—Homer Meal, 70, of Dundee, was killed Tuesday when he was dragged through a corn picker attached to a tractor he was driving on his farm in this Yates County community.

Boy, 2, Drowns

SHERMAN, N.Y. (AP)—John Fields, 2, was drowned Tuesday when he apparently fell into a stream behind his home near this Chautauqua County village.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Fields of Sherman.

Fuller Estate Fight Starts in Surrogate Court

Seeking to participate in the Estate of the late Henry Fuller, who for over 40 years conducted a general store at Glasco, Mrs. Melinda Fuller in June 1963 filed a right of election in Surrogate's court, alleging that as the widow of Fuller she had a right to share in the estate. The estate has been estimated to be over $500,000.

Objections have been filed and the matter is now before Surrogate Francis X. Tucker.

The will of Henry Fuller was filed for probate in April 1963. The fight of election was filed by Melinda Fuller in June. An answer to that allegation was filed on June 13 and on July 5 N. LeVan Haver, attorney, moved to examine Melinda Fuller, alleging that she had executed a release in February 1921 and was estopped of her claim of right of election as widow of deceased.

In 1921 divorce proceedings were in progress, each alleging misconduct on the part of the other. The Fullers were married in June 1905 in the Town of Saugerties.

Melinda Fuller alleges that as the widow of Henry Fuller she is entitled to a share of the estate. In opposition it is alleged she signed a release in 1921 and therefore is not entitled to any part of the estate. Mrs. Fuller for many years resided in Brooklyn and is now a resident of Nassau, N. Y.

For over 40 years Henry Fuller conducted the general store at Glasco which had previously been operated by his parents.

Under his will he left the bulk of his property to Evelyn Westcott and Irving Peer, who had been in his employe since about 1920. Among the requests was $2,000 to the Kingston Hospital; $1,000 to Trinity Cemetery; $2,000 to the Glasco Methodist Church, and $500 to each of four cousins residing in Cleveland.

Francis Vogt appears as counsel for Mrs. Fuller in the litigation brought to share in the estate.

Rosendale Flood Control Part of House-Passed Bill

Congressman J. Ernest Wharton (R-28th Congressional Dist.) today announced that the House of Representatives passed the Public Works Appropriation Bill on Tuesday, providing funds for flood control in three area communities.

Included in the bill was a $100,000 appropriation for flood control planning in Rosendale; $12,000 for flood study in the Catskill Creek area and $18,000 for study in the Mohawk River and Schoharie Creek at Windham.

The vote on the bill was 359 to 27. The bill now goes to the Senate.

The House measure also finances continuation of the Hudson River deepening project, harbor and other flood control projects, reclamation programs, the atomic energy commission and other public activities.

The Hudson River deepening project is expected to take another three years to complete with most of the work concerned with rock removal.

The bill's total as it left the House was $283,630,000 less than President Kennedy had requested. More than half of the new money was designated for the atomic energy commission.

No funds were included in the bill for public works projects in selected depressed areas.

President Kennedy last week asked for $45 million to be used principally in eastern Kentucky, but the House Appropriations Committee turned down the request.

Infant Dies Suddenly

John Fisher, two and a half month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Johann Fisher of Cedar Street, Eddyville died suddenly at home this morning. Coroner Francis J. McCardle said death was due to natural causes, noting the child had been suffering from a cold and was under the care of a physician. A Fatum's Ambulance attendant administered oxygen en route to Benedictine Hospital where the baby was pronounced dead.

Roofer Hurt in Fall

Fred Zimmerman, 44, of 59 Garden Street, an employe of Bert Bishop Inc., Flatbush Avenue, was injured in a fall from a roof this morning while working at 169 Henry Street. He was taken to Kingson Hospital in a Fatum ambulance. No report on his condition or extent of injuries was available early this afternoon. He was taken to the hospital at 9:43 a. m.

Old Stove Popular

The squat, cast iron stove invented by Benjamin Franklin nearly 200 years ago still is a popular item. Many home owners have installed them in TV and family rooms as enclosed "fireplaces." They're also ideal for warming summer cottages on chill days.

Masonite hardboard panels can be painted with either a brush or a roller.

Maryanne Jean Cassidy Exchanges Vows With New Jersey Man, Raymond Regan

Miss Maryanne Jean Cassidy, a graduate of the Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing in Kingston, exchanged marriage vows with a New Jersey police officer, Raymond Philip Regan, on Saturday, Nov. 16 at 10 a. m. in St. Rose Church, Belmar, N. J.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Cassidy of Elizabeth, N. J. The bridegroom is the son of William F. Regan of Caldwell, N. J.

Officiating clergyman was the Rev. Jerome Leary.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire styled gown of ivory peau de soie. It featured a flared watteau train and her illusion veil was held by a pillbox of peau de soie embroidered with pearls.

The bride's maid of honor was her sister, Kathleen Cassidy of Elizabeth, N. J. Miss Margaret Ann Regan, the bridegroom's niece was the flower girl.

William F. Regan Jr., of Whippany, N. J., was best man for his brother. Ushering were Richard Regan, brother of the bridegroom, from Willow's Grove, Pa., George Cassidy of Elizabeth, N. J., brother of the bride, and Leo Shatzel of Orange, N. J.

The bride, who was graduated also from the Benedictine Academy in Elizabeth, was formerly employed as head nurse of plastic surgery by the New York Hospital — Cornell Medical Center, New York City.

The bridegroom is a police officer in West Caldwell, N. J. He was graduated from the Caldwell High School and attended Seton Hall University, South Orange, N. J. Recently, he was graduated from the New Jersey Police Academy, Sea Girt, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Regan will be at home at 3 Bond Place, West Caldwell, N. J.

ATTENDANTS AT A SECOND WEDDING

Q—I am about to marry a girl whose first husband died eight months ago. We are going to be married in January in church. I would like to ask two friends to be ushers. My fiance tells me that since it is her second marriage, the attendants must be limited to a best man and maid of honor. Although I have no intention of insisting on this and making her unhappy, I do feel a wedding is for the groom as well as the bride and since it is my first marriage, I should be allowed to have ushers. May I have your opinion?

A—A bride at her second marriage, does not have bridesmaids. She has only one attendant, a maid (or matron) of honor and the groom and best man. As a rule, there are no ushers at a second wedding because it is usually so small that there is no need for them. However if your wedding is to be large enough to make them necessary to help seat the guests, you may have your two friends as ushers.

Is Their Obligation Canceled?

Q: Several weeks ago my husband and I were invited to a dinner party at the house of a business friend. Last week I invited them along with two other couples to dinner at our house. They were unable to come. Does that cancel our obligation to them, or must I invite them again some other time?

A: Strictly speaking, your obligation to them is cancelled. However, if you found them attractive and wish to encourage their friendship, you may certainly invite them again another time.

Bride's Name On Wedding Invitations

Q: I was christened Elizabeth, but ever since I was a little girl everyone has called me Betty. Is it necessary to have Elizabeth on my wedding invitations, or may I use the name Betty?

A: Betty on formal wedding invitations would not be correct.

Who pays for what at the wedding? The new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Wedding Expenses" answers this question in detail. To obtain a copy, send ten cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, in care of The Freeman.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but allquestions of general interest are answered in this column.

Tickets Are Available to Senior Class Play, 'Curious Savage' for Nov. 21-23

Tickets are on sale at Kingston High School for the Senior Class presentation of the whimsical comedy called "The Curious Savage," which will be given in the high school auditorium November 21-23. Described by the New York News during its successful Broadway run as "an evening of gentle laughter, with a teardrop or two, plus a dash of wisdom," the play is by John Patrick, author of the well-remembered "The Hasty Heart."

As in his earlier touching play about an embittered Scottish soldier who gets a new lease on his lonely life through love and friendship, John Patrick's theme in "The Curious Savage" is that happiness comes from generously giving love to others as well as in receiving it.

The "curious" Ethel Savage is no looney at all, but just charmingly eccentric. A gentle woman who's inherited several million dollars upon her husband's death, Mrs. Savage takes a childish delight in doing all the foolish things she didn't get a chance to do when she was younger. She's had her hair tinted blue, taken up ballet dancing, is seen everywhere with an out-sized teddy bear, and has starred on Broadway in a terrible play she wrote and financed. Though probably everybody would like to indulge themselves in some ludicrously foolish whim, now and then, Mrs. Savage is different. When she gets an urge to do something silly—she DOES it. And to help others enjoy some harmless foolishness, she's established what she calls a "Happiness Fund."

Fearful that there won't be much left for them to inherit if "the curious savage" continues on her merry spending sprees, her stepchildren pack her off to a sanitarium called "The Cloisters," hopeful that they can have her legally declared insane.

At "The Cloisters" Mrs. Savage makes friends with the slightly pixilated people who have found there a delightful retreat from the conflicts and confusions of an "outside" world which has neither the time nor patience to understand them. Abetted by her new-found friends, and strengthened by them in the belief that people have a right to be different and do giddy things once in a while, Mrs. Savage proceeds with a hilarious plan to outwit her greedy stepchildren.

Miss Dana Mastrogiacomo will play the title role of the wealthy and wacky widow, a part created by Lillian Gish on the New York stage. Others in the company, which is being directed by Jack B. Burton, will include Wesley Hyatt, John Donnaruma, Scott Sharot, Paul Kenik, Bob Schmidt, Chris Kapshak, Lynn Charlton, Louise Niterbuhl, Dale Malcolm and Alice Scully.

Sunday Concert Will Benefit New Paltz Cooperative Nursery

The Huguenot Street Cooperative Nursery in New Paltz will present Miss Susan Reed, folk and ballad singer, in a special concert on Sunday at 3 p. m.

The concert will be given in the New Paltz Central School and all proceeds will be used for the benefit of the nursery school.

Miss Reed, who is well known in Woodstock, has received critical acclaim for her performances. Ross Parmenter of the NEW YORK TIMES wrote ". . . the audience was obviously enchanted." A review in the JOURNAL AMERICAN stated ". . . rare emotional quality . . . an experience to cherish . . . her voice is endowed with a sweetness quite breathtaking. Hard is the heart not melted by such songs and interpretation."

Miss Reed sings folk songs and ballads from England, Scotland, Ireland and the hills and hollows of America.

Mrs. Raymond Kenyon of Woodstock and New Paltz, is chairman of the benefit concert. She announced that tickets will be available at the door for this performance.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Cheely-Alden Nuptials

Miss Marilyn Cheely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cheely of Port Ewen, and Merton Theaodre Alden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merton Alden, of Sarasota, Fla., were united in a double ring wedding ceremony on Saturday, Nov. 9 in the Port Ewen Methodist Church, Port Ewen. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. L. McFarland, pastor.

The couple was attended by the bride's sister, Miss Linda Cheely, and her brother, Edward Cheely. The bridegroom is self-employed in the landscape gardening business. The newlyweds will make their home in Sarasota, Fla.

Senate House Board Has New Trustees

Attending their first meeting as members of the Board of Trustees, Senate House, on November 14 were Benjamin Schecter of Kingston and George Jacobson of Hurley. An official welcome was extended by John Remensnyder, president of the board. Trustees are appointed to the Senate House Board by the New York State governor.

Attending the meeting was Miss Anna Cunningham, supervisor of Historic Sites.

The agenda included a report on the findings of Henry A. Judd, an authority on historic buildings, with particular emphasis on information relating to the Senate House, and a discussion of the John Vanderlyn paintings.

The purpose of the Board of Trustees is to advise and assist in the improvement of the Senate House and Museum. The prime purpose of the buildings is for the education of the public.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthews Feted

Mr. and Mrs. George Matthews, managers of the Home for the Aged, were feted by the guests and employes of the Home on Friday, Nov. 15.

The occasion marked the first anniversary since the appointment to their post.

Many tributes were read and a social hour enjoyed. Refreshments were furnished by the guests and employes.

Dividend Increased By Victory Markets

During a Board of Directors meeting Nov. 15, at the Victory Markets Inc. offices at 54 East Main Street, Norwich, the directors authorized an increase in the quarterly dividend from 15 cents to 20 cents per share on its stock. payable on December 16, to stockholders of record as of Dec. 2.

Starting with dividends paid in 1953, the dividends have been increased each year through 1963. This is a record of 10 consecutive years of increased dividends to Victory Markets stockholders. This will be the 219th dividend and is the 55th year of continuous dividends.

Charles A. Smith Sr., president of the company, said that this increase has been made possible through a substantial gain in net profit resulting from an increased sales volume and operation improvements.

High School Building Plans Are Reduced by 12 Rooms

Revised building plans for the proposed high school construction at Boiceville were outlined by Superintendent of Schools, Dr. George R. Sullivan, to members of the Onteora Board of Education at a meeting held in the West Hurley elementary school Monday night.

Dr. Sullivan, just back from a meeting with State Department of Education officials, said the SED had approved a reduction in number of rooms from 33 to 21.

The difference in construction costs will be slightly more than $400,000, Dr. Sullivan said. Original cost was estimated at more than $1,600,000 for the 33-room addition. The new figures are approximately $1,200,000 for the 21-room expansion, plus any increase in the cost of labor.

Same Curriculum

Anticipating a high school population of approximately 1380 by the 1969-70 school year, Dr. Sullivan said the present curriculum can be maintained despite the lopping off the 12 rooms from the original plans.

Preliminary floor plans have been reviewed by the board and State Education Department and the school architects will be asked to adjust them to the new schedule. After all factors have been evaluated the Board of Education will announce the estimated cost of the new project and take all steps necessary for a bond issue.

The target date for the high school bond issue is April. If the bond issue is defeated, Superintendent Sullivan foresaw the likelihood of double sessions for high school, starting with junior high in 1965.

Estimate Is 1380

Commenting on the increase in high school population, Dr. Sullivan noted that the estimate for 1969-70 is about 1380. There is now an enrollment of 957 secondary pupils in buildings designed to accommodate 920. The State Education Department has given the installation an 800-pupil rating for secondary purposes.

Dr. Sullivan said a curriculum evaluation completed two years ago pointed up the elementary and secondary building needs. Secondary construction was withheld, he said, in order to increase the elementary space. The district is now at the point where secondary expansion is mandatory unless wholesale double sessions are to be avoided later.

One of the "bottle neck" problems pointed up by the new building plans is the need for additional physical education space. A minimum of three gym stations will be needed for 1300 pupils and the school now has one two-station gym. A swimming pool has been suggested as an additional physical education teaching station.

Collins Suggestion

One small gymnasium without accomodations for spectators might be adequate to meet state requirements, Dr. Sullivan said. Trustee Lloyd Collins said he favored the building of a new spectator-type gymnasium. He described the present gym facilities as "inadequate." Collins also suggested that the architects propose alternate plans to satisfy state requirements in the physical education setup.

In reply to a question posed by Trustee Arthur P. Knight, the superintendent said the 12 rooms being lopped off original plans would be divided about equally between elementary and secondary. Dr. Sullivan also pointed out that the high school is now operating at about 98 per cent of capacity, an extraordinarily high figure.

The meeting was the first in a series of regional sessions planned by the Board of Education. About 20 West Hurley and Woodstock citizens, far above normal attendance, sat in on the session and then participated in a lively question and answer period.

Trustee Philip Gordon, president of the board, welcomed the presence of district citizens at meetings as a matter of policy. He commended the group for their interest in school matters.

Memorial Show For Chambers To End Saturday

The Memorial Show for Richard Chambers, Woodstock painter who used the professional name of Richard Munsell, has attracted widespread interest among art lovers of the community.

The show at the Guild of Craftsmen's Kleinert Gallery on the Village Green opened on Nov. 9 and will close with Saturday's schedule.

About twenty five paintings, including impressive portraits, abstracts and landscapes are in the show. The portraits which have attracted viewers include Portrait of an Elderly Man and Head of a Girl. A stunning nude, Nude in Chair, has drawn high critical praise.

An artist and teacher of national reputation, Chambers was teacher on the summer staff of the Art Students League prior to his sudden death this year. He was regarded as a prolific painter, illustrator and commercial technician.

Born in New York

A native New Yorker, Chambers studied at the Horace Mann School in Manhattan, the Lawrenceville School in New York; the Art Students League in New York and the Phoenix Art Institute.

He began his career as a teacher at the Chouinard Art Institute in Los Angeles, instructing in both portrait and figure painting and in drawing. After a brief career as a matte shot artist in the special effects department of 20th Century Fox's California studios, he turned free lance artist and began an immediate rise to fame.

The recipient of many West Coast awards, he was considered one of the finest artists in the country when World War II changed the course of his career. After his service years, he was commissioned by Chrysler Corp. to paint the bombing of Tokyo for the Significant War Scenes collection.

Combat Artist

Chambers was honored, during his career, with one man shows across the country from New York to California and his works were exhibited in Chicago, Washington, Los Angeles, New York and many other cities. Commissioned a second lieutenant during the war, he served as a combat artist recording Air Corps activity in the Pacific Theatre, and many of these works toured nationally.

His awards were numerous. A few of them include: Merit Foundation of Western Art, Academy of Western Painters, Painters' and Sculptors' Award, Redlands Art Association, Oakland and Santa Cruz Association. Among others he is also represented in the permanent collections of the Museum of Modern Art in New York and the New Britain Museum in Connecticut.

Woodstockers will recall Dick Chambers' generosity, strength of character, steadfast friendship and civic endeavors, as well as his inimitable style with a brush or any of the other tools of his trade.

Another Gallery Showing Works Of Robert Henri

The Alfredo Valente Gallery at 119 West 57th Street in New York is showing 23 selected works in the current revival of the art of the late Woodstock painting immortal, Robert Henri (1865-1929). The show opened Oct. 29 and continues through Nov. 29.

A 24/20 oil painting (1915) of the great Isadora Duncan and an imposing nude, Betalo Nu, are highlights in a collection that includes oils, pastel and crayon, watercolors and charcoal drawing.

There are several superb portraits, entitled La Jartigo, Mary Kate, Carla, Juanito, Lucinda and Mary Ann MacNamara.

Among the oils, painted from 1902 to 1928 are: Rainstorm, Wyoming Valley, Stretch of a River Shore, White Sails, Monhegan Island, At the Cafe. There are three watercolors of the dancer, Rashanara.

The current success of the Henri revivals is not surprising to the old timers in the Woodstock art colony. As a critic once said of Henri: "He paints like a man going over the top of a hill, singing."

New Buildings On Schedule

New elementary construction in the Onteora Central School District is proceeding according to plan and there is no reason to believe the new facilities will not be ready by September 1964.

This is the progress report Board of Education president, Philip Gordon, made at the board's monthly meeting held at West Hurley. Unusually good autumn weather has been beneficial and the work on the new Phoenicia school as actually ahead of schedule, Gordon said.

Some solid rock formations have hampered the operation at West Hurley.

Clerk Reports

Henry Hosser, Clerk of the Works, reported a foreman and five journeyman masons busy at the Phoenicia site. More than 5,500 bricks are on the site and are being laid as needed, with the possibility of additional bricklayers this week. Utility company is installing poles and full power should be available at the site soon. If snow holds off, Phoenicia could set the pace and "OK Phoenicia is way ahead."

Footings have been poured at Woodstock but some blasting remains to be done. Rock is being prepared or removed and blasting will be expedited as quickly as possible.

BEGINNER'S LUCK — Junior archeologist Harold Kocher hit the jackpot in Indian relics with a find on his family's farm near Vincennes, Ind. He found a hammer stone, two grooved axes and a celt, or grooveless ax, from an old Indian camp. It's the kind of discovery many Indian relic collectors spend a lifetime hunting for.

Jaycees to Hold Orientation Meet Thursday Night

The Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold a special membership and orientation meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday at 8 p. m.

The purpose of the meeting will be to acquaint young men between the ages of 21 and 35 years of age with the basic fundamentals of the organization and its operation. The organization is a civic organization with two basic fundamentals, betterment of the community and leadership training. It is open to young men regardless of any occupational, professional, political or business status.

The local organization will be discussed by the president of the Kingston Jaycees, Charles Carpenter. He will discuss the basic structure and outline some of the projects carried out in the local area. Regional, state and national levels will be discussed by Albert Trowbridge and Jaycee international by Robert Stedge. The SPOKE program, a first year incentive program for new members, will be explained by Robert Kelder. The meeting will be concluded with a national convention movie and refreshments.

Young men between the ages of 21 and 35 are urged to attend. No invitation or announcement is necessary.

Keep Flowers Fresh

Keep flower arrangements away from drafts, direct sunshine, hot radiators and air conditioning units. To prolong their beauty, flowers should be permitted to rest in a cool dark place at night.

Plant leaves give off moisture, helping to keep the air moist. They help purify the air by absorbing carbon dioxide and giving out oxygen in its place.

Relief Problems More Complex Is Report by State

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The problems of relief recipients have become so complex that welfare departments are unable to solve them without help, the state welfare commissioner said today.

George K. Wyman asserted that "public welfare problems must be recognized for what they are — the end results of problems of health, housing, education, labor, human rights."

He commented in a speech prepared for delivery to the 64th annual meeting of the New York State Welfare Conference. More than 2,000 delegates registered for the three - day meeting which opened Tuesday.

Primary Task Cited

Wyman recalled that the primary task of relief agencies once was providing stop-gap help in emergencies that kept a breadwinner from his job.

"Today, there are no able-bodied bread winners in the overwhelming majority of welfare cases," Wyman said.

Dependency in most cases is caused by illness, lack of education and job skills, racial discrimination, poor living conditions "and, often, a combination of these handicaps," he added.

Need Much Help

Public welfare departments need the help of a wide range of government agencies and the assistance of community leadership to deal with those problems, the commissioner said.

Wyman's speech included high praise for the Social Welfare Board, a 15-member agency that sets the state's basic welfare policies.

Proposals have been advanced from various quarters in recent years for abolition of the board, which is the collective head of the Welfare Department. The board appoints the commissioner, who is the department's chief administrative officer.

Hank Bauer Is Hoping Birds Will Fly Again

BALTIMORE (AP) — Hank Bauer looks upon managing the Baltimore Orioles as a simple thing.

"The ball players know me, if I ask them to do something, they'll do it for me," he believes. "They know I'm strictly for the ball player."

He displayed this camaraderie at a news conference Tuesday confirming his engagement in a one-year contract as the new Oriole manager.

During a lull in questioning by newsmen, the relaxed Bauer said to the back of the room: "Got any questions, Jim?"

"You're the only man with a job," shot back Gentile, the first baseman who is one of the Orioles' problem children.

"I don't think you have anything to worry about," said Bauer reassuringly.

Lee MacPhail general manager, made it clear he hired Bauer to replace Billy Hitchcock in hopes he would get more out of the Orioles as individual players.

"I think he has the quality of leadership to put some spark in our ball club to change it from just another first division club to a true contender," is the way MacPhail expressed it.

HANK BAUER

Players Show Up

The feeling for Bauer among the players was shown by the presence at the news conference of third basman Brooks Robinson, pitchers Milt Pappas and Dick Hall in addition to Gentile.

Except for the possible acquisition of a left-hand batting outfielder, Bauer said he planned to start the same Orioles who finished fourth the past season — "until proven otherwise."

"Our most pressing problem is scoring runs," he declared. "I think the pitching is very good and the defense good."

Bauer, who played in nine World Series during his 11 years in the Yankee outfield was traded to Kansas City in 1959. He took over as manager in 1961 and quit the day before the 1962 season ended.

When Hitchcock was fired after two seasons, in which the Orioles finished seventh and fourth in the American League, he acknowledged there was talk he didn't get the most out of some players.

Bauer squarely faced questions about his own relationship with the players whom he coached and went out with at night.

Not Much Change

"I don't think I'll have to change — at least not much," Bauer said.

"Maybe last season I did drink with the boys. Next year I won't. I can't see all this big changing stuff.

"If the players want me to be tough, I will be. It's up to them and how they behave. "I'll expect 100 per cent from each man. If I don't get it I'll take steps to get it."

Bauer said fines are not the answer to disciplines.

"One guy you might have to pat on the tail, and another you might have to give some bull and then lower the boom," he said.

Jim Brown Takes 1st in Scoring

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Brown of Cleveland regained the scoring lead from Green Bay's Jerry Kramer and Roosevelt Taylor of the Chicago Bears took over first place in interceptions in weekend play in the National Football League.

Although Brown's Cleveland Browns dropped out of a first-place tie in the Eastern Conference by a 20-14 defeat at the hands of St. Louis, Jimmy scored his 13th touchdown of the year for a total of 78 points, Jerry Kramer's only point was a conversion after the Packers' lone touchdown in that 26-7 defeat at Chicago. Kramer now has 76 points, only two more than New York's Don Chandler.

Brown gained 154 yards in 22 attempts, pushing his total for the year to 1,447. Another day like that and he will beat his own league record of 1,527 set in 1958. He needs only 80 yards and has four games to play.

Taylor grabbed two of the five interceptions by the Bears against Green Bay for a leading total of seven for 118 yards. Dick Lynch of New York still has the most yardage with 152 on six interceptions.

Fine Pitching

LOS ANGELES — Ron Perranoski of the Dodgers appeared in 69 National League games last season. In 50 of the games he gave no runs.

Texas Opens Schools To Negro Athletes

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas, a state producing about 10,000 Negro high school football players and some 3,500 basketball players, now is going to see more of them staying at home for their collegiate competition.

The University of Texas of the Southwest Conference has integrated its sports and will start recruiting the Negro athletes. Southern Methodist announced that Negroes could be used on its team and University of Houston, an independent said Tuesday qualified Negro athletes would be sought.

For years teams from the Big Ten, Big Eight, Big Six, and other conferences raided the state of its Negro football stars. Or the athletes went to all-Negro colleges in the state, such as Prairie View A&M and Texas Southern.

Several years ago the barriers against Negroes participating in sports at Texas colleges started falling as integration of the schools spread.

North Texas State University, the fourth largest college in the state with 10,000 students and a member of the Missouri Valley Conference, opened athletics to Negroes and came up with Abner Haynes, who after starring as a collegian, played with the Dallas Texans and is now with the Kansas City Chiefs.

A number of small colleges in the state, including several in the Lone Star Conference, have had Negro athletes for sevral years.

But meanwhile many of the top Negro athletes went elsewhere, including Dick Lane who now plays for the Detroit Lions and Junior Coffee, who is at the University of Washington.

The state's Negro high schools have produced Dave Stallworth, who plays basketball at Wichita, and Earl Lattimer, who is a star lineman at Michigan State, among others who went to other states to participate. Olle Matson, former all-NFL pro, attended Houston's Yates High School before playing college ball in California.

The best known Negro star in the state now is Warren McVea, a 170-pound speedster who led San Antonio's Brackenridge High to the state schoolboy championship last season.

Move Came Quietly

It all began when Darrell Royal, University of Texas athletic director and coach of the nation's No. 1 football team, held his regular Monday get-together with sports writers and said:

"The athletic council met with the administration this morning and we decided that any student who meets academic and athletic requirements is eligible to try out for any sport at this moment."

That statement broke the ice. Now most of the seven other members of the Southwest Conference can be expected to follow suit.

Already the University of Houston, an independent which became a state college Sept. 1, and Southern Methodist University, have served notice qualifield Negro athletes are welcome.

Delay in Arkansas

There may be some delay at the University of Arkansas where Coach Frank Broyles said it was "too early for comment." Arkansas Gov. Orville Faubus said last week he would oppose integration of athletics in the state.

Rice University is in a unique position in that it cannot integrate under conditions set down by its founder, William Marsh Rice. There is a court suit on file, however, attempting to lift all racial restrictions at the Southwest Conference school.

But already the state's two largest schools, Texas, with 22,000 students, and Houston, with 16,000, have said they will recruit Negro athletes.

Name Big Names As Inter-Loop Trading Opens

NEW YORK (AP) —Their appetites whetted by the big trade involving Rocky Colavito, major league baseball owners get their chance to swing into high swapping gear beginning at midnight tonight.

Three National League sluggers, Orlando Cepeda of San Francisco, Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee and Frank Thomas of the New York Mets, might be had for the right price.

Among the American League players discussed in trade rumors are Leon Wagner of the Los Angeles Angels, Jim Gentile of Baltimore and Lu Clinton of Boston.

The American League teams seem particularly anxious to make personnel changes after the Los Angeles Dodgers proved in the World Series that the Yankees can be beaten.

That sent new hope through the league where it has been a long time since a real challenge to the Yankees was mounted.

Yale-Harvard Tops Slate

Spartans Picked To Beat Illini For Big 10 Title

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Harvard and Yale have been playing each other in football since 1875 and their games virtually always are in doubt until the final tackle. Saturday's fray shouldn't be any different.

Last week there was a bit of left-handed forecasting with 41 correct guesses and 13 wrong ones. That's a .759 average, a sharp slump from the .807 figure of the week before. The season's totals now are 354-121 for .746.

It is rare when the final big Saturday of the season pairs the last two remaining contenders in at least two conferences against each other. That's the case in both the Big Ten and Big Eight circuits.

So here's how things should turn out:

Michigan State over Illinois: Sherm Lewis, the Mighty Mouse of Michigan State, is the irresistible force while Dick Butkus of Illinois is the immovable object. This time the immovable object is the loser and the Spartans win the Rose Bowl berth.

Oklahoma over Nebraska: Not since the glory days of Biff Jones and the 1940 Rose Bowl season have the Cornhuskers flashed the muscle as shown by Dennis Claridge and his mates. But Oklahoma has muscle and speed.

Washington over Washington State: Out in Seattle they say that the star of the Washington team is the unspillable Junior Coffey. The Cougars will discover it is true.

Pittsburgh over Penn State: The Pitt quarterback merely has to Dial M for Murder — and either Fred Mazurek or Paul Martha will answer.

Auburn over Florida State: Jimmy Sidle and his mates with relative ease, unless the entire Tiger is busy thinking about next week's game with Alabama.

Southern California over UCLA: The clock has struck the midnight hour for the Cinderella boys from UCLA.

Duke over North Carolina: Jay Wilkinson will be the difference even though the Tar Heels have players named Edge and Brain.

Triangle Five, The 50 Club Win YMCA 'B' Games

Triangles gained a 14-12 edge in the fourth quarter to edge Doran's, 57-55, in YMCA "B" League basketball action last night. In a companion game, the 50 Club overcame a 34-38 halftime deficit to win over Mid-City Lanes, 65-60.

Dick Chatham led Triangles with 21 points. Walt Colclough's 16 topped Doran's. Rick Gray of 50 Club took honors for the night with 24 points and Cliff Schoonmaker dunked 19 for Mid-City.

Morrison Greatest Handyman In Pro Football---Sherman

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Morrison is the handyman of the New York Giants. If any back is hurt, offense or defense, Allie Sherman turns to available Joey from Lima, Ohio.

"Morrison just proved once again he is the best all around back anybody could have," said Sherman after Morrison enjoyed his best day Sunday against San Francisco.

Playing fullback as a sub for the injured Alex Webster, Morrison carried the ball 17 times for 98 yards, including one 44-yard ramble. He also caught three passes for 54 yards and two touchdowns. His total offense for the day was 152 yards.

Nobody would think of comparing the 26-year-old Cincinnati alumnus with Jimmy Brown. Yet the NFL statistics reveal a startling fact. With the exception of Jimmy's average of 7.1 yards per carry, Morrison's 5.6-yard average is best among the 15 top ground gainers. Morrison is way down the list in 12th place with 389 yards rushing, not quite 1,100 yards behind Brown.

Staubach Eligible

If you are wondering how Roger Staubach, a junior at Navy, is eligible for the pro draft, it is because he spent a year in junior college at New Mexico Military Institute. The pros probably will lay off Roger in the early rounds because he is committed to a career in the Navy but they'll grab him later, just in case. . . Over 60 of the current college stars already have been drafted as futures because their original college class graduates next spring. . . Peahead Walker, scout for the New York Giants, says tackle Scott Appleton of Texas is the best lineman he's seen and George Mira of Miami is the best pro type quarterback. . . Steve Owen is back with the Giants on the scouting staff.

Burden on Unitas

Loss of Lenny Moore for the balance of the year puts a heavy burden on Johnny Unitas because Moore and the Colts' spotty running attack were practically synonymous. . .Bart Starr will start for the Packers against the 49ers Sunday if he is sharp enough to suit Vince Lombardi.

Esopus Valley Bridge Scores

Dr. Paul Perlman of Woodstock and I. H. Wheatcroft combined for a brilliant 71½ per cent score to win first place in the Esopus Valley Bridge Club's Fractional point game at Deanie's in Woodstock.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wood of Wittenberg placed second with 57½ per cent. Mrs. I. H. Wheatcroft of Kingston and Walter Daumann of Pine Hill had 54 per cent. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall DuBois of Woodstock were fourth with 47½ per cent. Twenty one boards were in play in a Howell movement.

The monthly Master Point tournament is scheduled tonight at 8 o'clock at Deanie's.

Name Robertson To Committee

Ian (Scotty) Robertson, golf professional at Wiltwyck Country Club, has been named a member of the Northeastern New York Professional Golfers Association Golf Show Committee.

The committee, headed by Robert F. (Bob) Smith of Albany Country Club, meets Nov. 26 at Shaker Ridge in Loudonville to propose new ideas for the golf show scheduled in April.

Hardwick Leads PBA in Earnings

AKRON, Ohio—Billy Hardwick's $7,500 award for winning the Professional Bowler's Association national championship event in New York last week, has enabled him to win the money title of the organization for 1963.

The big check ran his winnings for the year to a total of $33,265, coming on PBA victories in New York Mobile, Phoenix and Los Angeles.

Hardwick's New York victory also climaxed a season in which he led all PBA'ers in pins per game average of slightly better than 210.

Runnerup to Hardick in earnings was Baltimore's Harry Smith, who finished with a total of $30,847, while another Californian Andy Marzich finished third in the overall standings with a total of $30,098. He was 18th in the Nationals and picked up $850 for his efforts there.

Bowler of the Year Dick Weber, cashed for only $250 in New York and dropped a notch to fourth place in the standings with a total of $29,600.

From here the nation's top bowlers headed for Chicago and the seventh World's Invitational. PBA members are favored to walk off with nearly all of the $48,000 prize fund there. PBA'er Don Carter of St. Louis has won five of the World's six tournaments.

Following the World's, the PBA 1964 tournament tour opens in Jacksonville and Hialeah, Florida in mid-December.

Tulsa Woman Bags First 300

Neva Running Wolf, a California Indian-born bowler, leads the high triples with 730. Top team efforts are Four Chief's, Philadelphia, 1133; and Hudepool Beer, Cincinnati, 3075.

WIBC Seeks Photos

The Women's International Bowling Congress is interested in collecting photos and stories of national interest about leading bowlers, officers and events of the "olden" (pre-1930) days, for possible use in a revised WIBC history and preparations for WIBC's 50th anniversary. The Publicity Division would appreciate receiving any such items which associations have on file or in their scrapbooks. They will be returned as soon as copies can be made. The WIBC address is 1225 Dublin Road, Columbus, Ohio, 43212. WIBC will appreciate your including your ZIP code number with your return address.

Peruvian Boxer Ousted by State

NEW YORK (AP) — Mauro Mina's chances of getting a title fight are finished. His long ring career may be over, at least in the United States.

The 30-year-old Peruvian, unbeaten in the last five years and ranked third among the 175-pound contenders, was dropped from a Madison Square Garden television fight with Chicago's Allen Thomas. An examination Tuesday disclosed he had an operation for a detached retina of the right eye in March at Lima, Peru.

The State Athletic Commission does not permit boxers to fight after surgery involving a detached retina. It is doubtful whether any other state would permit him to box.

NO PAUSE FOR REFLECTION—Joey Giardello is liable to see just this—two Dick Tigers—when he attempts to take the middleweight championship from the Nigerian. The title fight is scheduled for Convention Hall, Atlantic City, Dec. 7.

80-Yard Gallops Specialties For Michigan State's Lewis

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When you've got Michigan State backed up against their own goal line, watch out.

Notre Dame penned the Spartans on their 15-yard line in the fourth quarter Saturday, and a 7-6 Irish lead was looking good. Then Sherman Lewis, only 152 pounds, burst all the way for the touchdown that gave Michigan State a 12-7 victory.

It was the fifth time this year that Sherman had gone more than 80 yards, and the run earned the senior co-captain of the Spartans the Back of the Week honor in The Associated Press survey.

Lewis, who comes from Louisville, Ky., also scored the first Michigan State touchdown. He was the leading rusher for the Spartans with 138 yards and played on defense most of the game.

It was a good Saturday for running backs, elsewhere. Junior fullback Brian Piccolo of Wake Forest led his team to a 20-19 victory over South Carolina, breaking the nation's longest major college losing streak at 18. Piccolo gained 140 yards in 21 rushes and started the comeback from a 19-7 deficit with a 16-yard touchdown run. Then he kicked the game-winning extra point.

Paul Martha, Pitt's left halfback, scored on a long run for the second week in a row to start the victory over Army. He had 103 yards on six carries. gained 103 yards for Northwestern, more than the entire Ohio State team, and had two touchdowns.

Sophomore halfback Larry Shields scored both touchdowns for Oklahoma against Missouri, one on a blistering punt return, and made two important pass interceptions.

Two quarterbacks, Terry Isaacson of Air Force and Archie Roberts of Columbia, were outstanding. Isaacson scored twice, set up three other touchdowns and a field goal and punted for a 50-yard average against New Mexico. Roberts passed for three touchdowns and ran for a fourth against Penn.

Casey's Mets Play Senators In Cooperstown Hall Game

COOPERSTOWN — Casey Stengel's New York Mets will make their first appearance on the historic turf of Doubleday Field here when they meet the Washington Senators in the 22nd renewal of the Hall of Fame game.

The game will be played on Monday, July 27, Paul S. Kerr, president of the National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum, announced today.

The game provides the 1964 highlight of a season in which the nationally known baseball shrine celebrates its twenty-fifth anniversary.

Selection of the Mets and Senators was made by Warren C. Giles, president of the National League, and his American League counterpart, Joe Cronin.

All orders for tickets should be addressed to the Cooperstown (N. Y.) Baseball Committee. Those seeking tickets may either write, telephone or call in person. All seats are reserved.

Doubleday Field, with a seating capacity of 9,700, is a perennial sellout for the annual attraction pitting major league teams against each other. In last year's attraction the Boston Red Sox defeated the Milwaukee Braves, 7 to 3, but over the years each league has won ten of the games, with the 1959 tussle between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Kansas City Athletics resulting in a tie.

Stengel, one of the grandest figures in baseball history, made his last appearance in Cooperstown as manager of the Yankees in 1954, when he defeated Cincinnati. This time he will be opposed by Gil Hodges, the Washington manager who was once his first baseman.

New Ski Areas Near New Paltz Expand Sport in the Catskills

Two new ski centers in the New Paltz vicinity and a third at Andes will add many miles of skiable terrain to the central Catskill Mountain region, according to the New York State Commerce Dept. All will operate on a daily schedule.

Ski-Minne is on Route 44 (the Minneswasha Trail), nine miles west of New Paltz. Bonticou Ski Hill is on the Mountain Rest Road, five miles west of New Paltz. Catskill Ski Center is two miles off Route 28, at Andes.

Ski-Minne has an open slope for beginners and four trails, a beginners', advanced and two novice, ranging 1300 to 1900 feet. Each has a vertical drop of 300 feet. A 1500-foot T-bar will serve all runs. Bonticou Hill has one open slope with areas for beginners and intermediates, 500 and 100 feet with 75-and 200-foot verticals. Two tows will serve the two areas.

Catskill Ski Center will open with six trails — 2500 to 9500 feet in length — with vertical drops of 370 and 1000 feet. The center will operate daily. Two T-bars will serve all runs.

New York ski centers are listed in a free directory, Ski New York, issued by the New York State Dept. of Commerce in Albany.

Auburn Quarter Makes History

Auburn's Jimmy Sidle threatens to make college football history. He may become the first quarterback to lead the nation in rushing.

Official NCAA statistics through last Saturday's games, show that Sidle trails Kansas' Gale Sayers, the nation's major college rushing leader, by 14 yards. Sidle, however, has two more games to play while the Jayhawk halfback has only one.

The brilliant T-quarterback of Auburn has gained 835 yards rushing in eight games, making him the only rusher to average more than 100 yards per game. Sayers has 849 in nine games.

Quarterback Don Trull of Baylor leads the passing and total offense departments by a wide margin. In passing, he has connected with 142 of 254 throws of 1860 yards. In total offense, he has amassed 1913 yards in 329 plays.

Glenville Takes Roosevelt Feature

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Glenville scored a 2¼ lengths victory over Rock Song Tuesday night in the featured $2,600 conditioned pace at Roosevelt Raceway.

Glenville, with a strong final quarter drive, covered the mile in 2:03 4-5. The win was the third of the season in 25 starts for the 7-year-old horse.

Glenville returned $4.20. The Hermit finished third.

Pick Denby Blackwell Week's Outstanding Lineman In Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — "The measure of a great football player is how he performs in the clutch, and Denby Blackwell's performance against Iowa State last weekend measured up to the fondest dreams of any coach."

That was Coach Doug Weaver of Kansas State speaking Tuesday after he was informed that Blackwell had been chosen Associated Press Lineman of the Week.

Blackwell, a mathematics major from St. Louis, caught a fourth-quarter pass on a 25-yard play that set up K-State's clinching touchdown in the 21-10 victory over Iowa State. The victory snapped a string of 26 losses in the Big Eight Conference.

Blackwell wasn't even supposed to be in the game at that point, but Weaver hadn't been able to substitute Ralph McFillen, the Wildcats' regular split end. Blackwell is used chiefly as corner back on defense.

Later Blackwell intercepted a pass and rturned it 39 yards to the nine, setting up an insurance touchdown.

But his performance was no fluke. Known as a "real steady player," he has seen action in all K-State's games.

Blackwell's own comment was characteristic of his quiet, hard-working approach.

"I'm completely flabergasted but very happy," he said. "I appreciate the honor very much. But, more than personally, I feel it is a tribute to one of the finest team efforts in which I have ever had a part."

Blackwell, a junior, stands 6-foot-2 and weighs 183. His closest competition for the honor came from John Hughes of Southern Methodist, an earlier Lineman of the Week.

Hughes, on a goal-line stand, made two tackles and batted down a fourth-down pass in the end zone, preserving SMU's 14-7 victory over Arkansas. In the fourth quarter, on a fourth and two situation on the SMU 10, he bought down the ball carrier a yard short of a first down.

Other line standouts last week included guards Eddie McQuarters of Oklahoma and Bruce MacDonald of California, and end Ivory McDowell of Iowa.

Army Sports Teams End Season Saturday

WEST POINT — Saturday marks the conclusion of the regular season for three Army fall sports teams — soccer, cross country and 150-pound football —and in each contest the final result will have a definite bearing on the overall records.

Soccer draws the center of attraction at Annapolis, where two unbeaten teams clash head on in one of the East's major battles of the year. The Cadets have won all ten outings to date, while Navy has yet to lose in nine games.

Army, who trails Navy in the overall series, 10-14-1, has failed to score against the Middies in the last two meetings and has not won since 1958 when it registered a 2-0 decision. Navy eked out a slim 1-0 victory in 1961, then followed that up with a 3-0 blanking in another key contest last November.

Coach Joe Palone's booters have been primarily an offensive team thus far, averaging four goals per game. Sophomore Jim Kriebel, juniors Mike Deems and Jose Gonzalez and senior Dan Banovic have been the leading scorers, while captain Wayne Wheeler, Ed Simpson and Jim Golden have been outstanding on defense.

Navy, on the other hand, has used its defense as its chief weapon. The Middies were unscored upon through the first six games, but since have allowed a total of five. This still averages out to less than one goal per game.

Boast Scoring Leader

Bucknell snapped the scoring hex in the seventh contest and darted ahead to a 2-0 lead. But Navy rallied to gain a 4-2 decision. The same happened against Swarthmore, while the Middies were never behind in their 2-1 edging of Maryland. Sophomore Myron Hura has been the scoring pace-setter in the absence of Carl Kaeser, partially sidelined with a leg injury. Kaeser has led the nation in scoring the past two years.

Army's cross country team will also be at Navy, needing a win to finish the season over the .500 mark. The Cadets (3-3) lead in the rivalry, 18-8, but last year were defeated, 23-38. Several of the Navy runners responsible for that loss are back this year.

Bill Straub, who won the Heptagonal race in record time earlier this month, will head Army's delegation. Middies expected to give him some trouble include Greg Williams, Bob Sermier and Forrest Horton.

Coach Eric Tipton's 150-pounders will be at home to host a winless Columbia team as the action draws to an end in the Eastern Collegiate League. Neither team has a chance for the championship, but a win for Army will give it a 3-3 record for the season.

The Cadet lightweights have feasted on Columbia teams in the past, and have not yielded a single point in the six games already played. During this span Army has scored 266 points, or an average of 44.4 points per game.

Minor League Realignment Seen Very Soon

NEW YORK (AP) — The realignment of the two top minor baseball leagues may not be completed until the minor league meetings in San Diego next month.

The International League, beset by financial problems as a result of its expansion to 10 teams last year, has requested aid from the majors before agreeing to continue its present setup.

League President Tommy Richardson discussed his circuit's problems with Commissioner Ford Frick Tuesday and received assurance that every consideration would be given to his request.

While neither Richardson nor Frick would disclose the exact nature of the request, it is believed the International would prefer returning to eight teams unlss the majors helped defray some of the added travel costs.

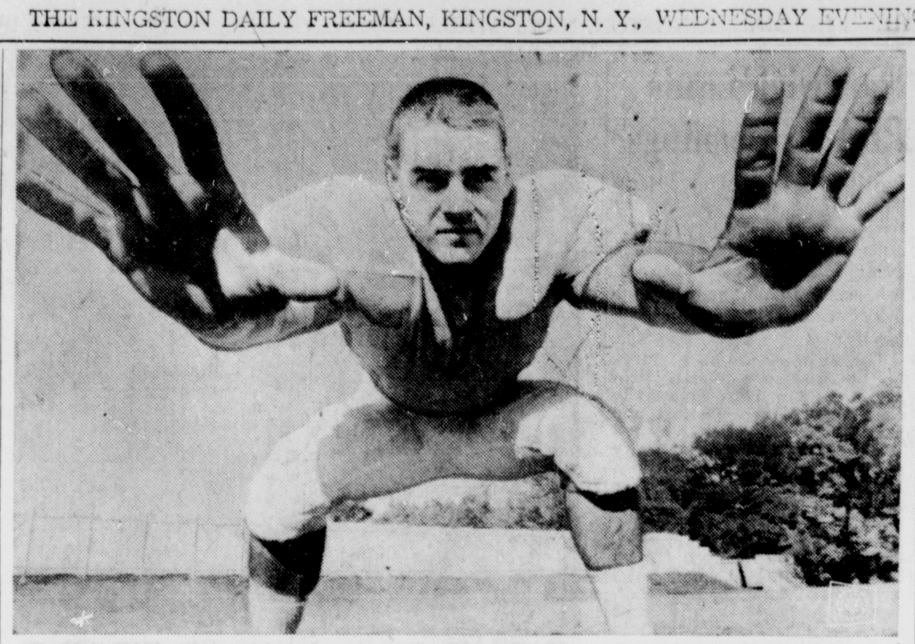
When the American Association was disbanded last year, both the International and Pacific Coast Leagues expanded to 10 teams. The International added Indianapolis and Little Rock. The PCL took on Denver, Oklahoma City and Dallas - Fort Worth, dropping Vancouver.

The PCL, which had five teams that are directly owned by the major leagues, is set to resume with 10 teams in 1964. The International is not in such a fortunate position. All of its teams are independently owned with big league working agreements.

Consequently, the International cannot withstand losses as well as the Pacific Coast League.

Sinko's Choice

BOSTON (NEA) — Coach Steve Sinko of Boston University regards his linebacker Bill Budness as the finest guard he ever coached.



HANDY MAN—This is what the opposition sees when Texas linebacker Dave McWilliams gets set to do what some teams call the Butterfly, but is known to the Longhorns as the Tennessee. The maneuver involves hitting the potential pass receiver at the line of scrimmage.

New Ski Center in Catskills Opens New Slope, Five Trails

Ski centers in the northern Catskill Mountains have increased this season with the opening of Scotch Valley, two miles east of Route 23 at Stamford, the New York State Commerce Department points out.

Scotch Valley opens up an additional slope and five trails for skiers who frequent this popular section of the Catskills. The ski runs will be served by a 3300-foot double chair (designed also for use by summer sightseers) and an 1800-foot T-bar. The 800-foot open slope with 100-foot vertical drop, provides a separate area for beginners. Five trails have been cut from 3300 to 5000 feet with verticals up to 750 feet for advanced beginners, intermediates and advanced intermediates. A 2½-story base lodge, 45 by 75 feet, will have rest rooms cafeteria and cocktail lounge. The area also is installing snow-making equipment. It will operate on a daily basis.

Scotch Valley joins such older ski centers in the area as Hunter, Windham, Roxbury and Plattekill, all of which have been groomed and readied for the coming season.

Cave Mountain Change

Cave Mountain at Windham has changed both ownership and name since last season. The new owners have adopted the name Windham Ski Center to associate the enlarged area with the popular resort community. A novel double-chair lift — a "cabin" chair — extending 5500 feet is being installed. The chairs are enclosed in plexiglass bubbles to shield riders from wintry winds. Its builders claim a capacity of 1000 per hour. The chair is in addition to the 2000-foot T-bar and three rope tows. The ski runs have been completely changed to provide three slopes that run from 3000 to 4500 feet and three trails. The shortest trail is 4000 feet long with a 675 vertical. Two others with a 1400-foot vertical are 1½ miles and three miles long. A new snow-making machine also is being installed, and there is a new base lodge. Windham Ski Center will open December 16 on a daily basis.

Hunter Expands

The Hunter Mountain Ski Bowl has expanded its six open slopes and cut two additional trails, for a total of six for the 1963-64 season. The slopes, from a half-mile to a mile long, have verticals from 400 to 1600 feet. Two double chairs, Poma and platter lifts and two tows provide up-mountain transportation. Accomodations are conveniently near in the resort community of Hunter.

Roxbury Ski Center, at Vega, operates daily. Its three slopes, 500, 1600 and 3600 feet, drop at verticals up to 900 feet. Seven trails, 2000 to 7000 feet, drop at verticals from 200 to 900 feet. A T-bar lift and two tows serve the area.

Plattekill Mountain Ski Center is six miles west of Roxbury. It operates weekends and holidays with four slopes 500 to 3000 feet (150 to 970 verticals) and three trails that range 3800 to 7400 feet at a 970 foot vertical drop. All runs are served by a T-bar and two tows.

Ski centers in New York are listed in a free directory, Ski New York, issued by the New York State Department of Commerce, 112 State Street Albany 7, N. Y.

Saratoga Picks Hit 41 Per Cent

SARATOGA SPRINGS — Those who stuck with the favorites did well during the 1963 season at Saratoga Raceway, where the choices won 41 per cent of the 1,278 races. Favorites were first or second 61 per cent of the time and in the money 69 per cent.

Proof that the inside post has an advantage in harness racing comes from the figures that reveal No. 1 post won the greater number of races, 206, for an average of 16 per cent. No. 2 was second with 191 wins for 14.9 per cent, while No. 4 had an even 14 per cent on 179 victories. No. 5 was fourth with 13.9 per cent followed by No. 3 with 13.3 per cent.

Looking over the daily double combinations that clicked during the season, the 1-5 double led the field with seven times on the board. Close behind was 1-3 and 2-6, each hitting six times. There were four combos that popped up five times. They were 2-2, 3-4, 3-6 and 5-3. Connecting four times were 3-5, 3-7, 4-7 5-1, 5-4 and 7-5.

There were only five combinations that did not show up at least once during the 142-day season. They were 1-6, 3-1, 7-6, 8-4 and 8-7.

Highest daily double of the season was $1,428.80, which resulted from an 8-1 combination on July 16.

Heroux Returns

POTSDAM — Dick Heroux, senior forward from Cohoes, returns to the Clarkson basketball team this winter. A returning letterman, he led the team in scoring last year with a 15.6 average.

Upstate Briefs

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP)—The Red Raiders of Colgate, who expect to be strafed from the air by Brown this Saturday, devoted Tuesday's football practice to strengthening their aerial defenses.

Brown has depended on passing to a great extent since fullback John Kelly suffered a leg fracture in mid-season.

Cornell Rests

Practice resumed today for the Big Red's Thanksgiving Day encounter with Pennsylvania.

George Norman, a 195-pound end from Short Hills, N.J., will replace the injured Dick Williams on Cornell's starting unit, Harp said Tuesday. Norman is a junior.

Irish Tough

The Orangemen meet the Irish on Thanksgiving Day in New York City.

Panther Star Would Rather Be Quarterback

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Paul Martha plays halfback for Pitt —and he plays it exceptionally well—but he'd just as soon play quarterback.

Pitt Athletic Director Frank Carver has called him the best Panther running back since the great Marshall Goldberg was making headlines in the late 1930s and Army's Paul Ditzel said before last Saturday's game that "Paul Martha is probably the best college football player in the country."

The senior halfback didn't do anything to change either opinion with his performance against the Cadets—six carries for 103 yards gained and a touchdown.

With such raves and performances to give them credence one might wonder why Martha would say, "I think I like quarterback as much as halfback."

The answer isn't a difficult one. Martha had an outstanding prep career as a quarterback at Shadyside Academy in Pittsburgh and was the Panthers' front line signal caller before being switched to halfback last season.

However, to say that Martha is unhappy about being switched to halfback would be wrong.

"I have no regrets, absolutely not," he said in the locker room after the victory over Army. "Besides we probably couldn't have a better quarterback than Fred (Mazurek). I'd probably be second team quarterback this year."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harry Butsko, former University of Maryland linebacker, has been activated by the Washington Redskins and will play his first National Football League game Sunday in Philadelphia against the Eagles.

Celtics Give Knicks Lesson

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

O.K., Boston, we get the point.

If the Boston Celtics are really out to prove they can win in the National Basketball Association without the retired Bob Cousy they are doing a good job of it.

The Celts dealt the rejuvenated New York Knicks a sharp lesson in the second game of a doubleheader at Madison Square Garden Tuesday night, to make their season record 12-1. The score was 126-98.

The Knicks, who had won three in a row for the first time since anyone could remember, were talking about cooling off the Celtics, but Boston put the chill on them instead.

The second place Cincinnati Royals chopped down the Detroit Pistons 127-102 in the first game.

In the other NBA game, the San Francisco Warriors jumped off to a 66-43 lead at the half, and coasted to a 129-96 victory over the St. Louis Hawks, leaders in the West.

The climate of Korea is humid and continental, similar in many respects to the United States between Georgia and Maine. Korea, however, has a pronounced rainy season in summer and relatively dry winters. The hot moist summers are well suited to growing rice.

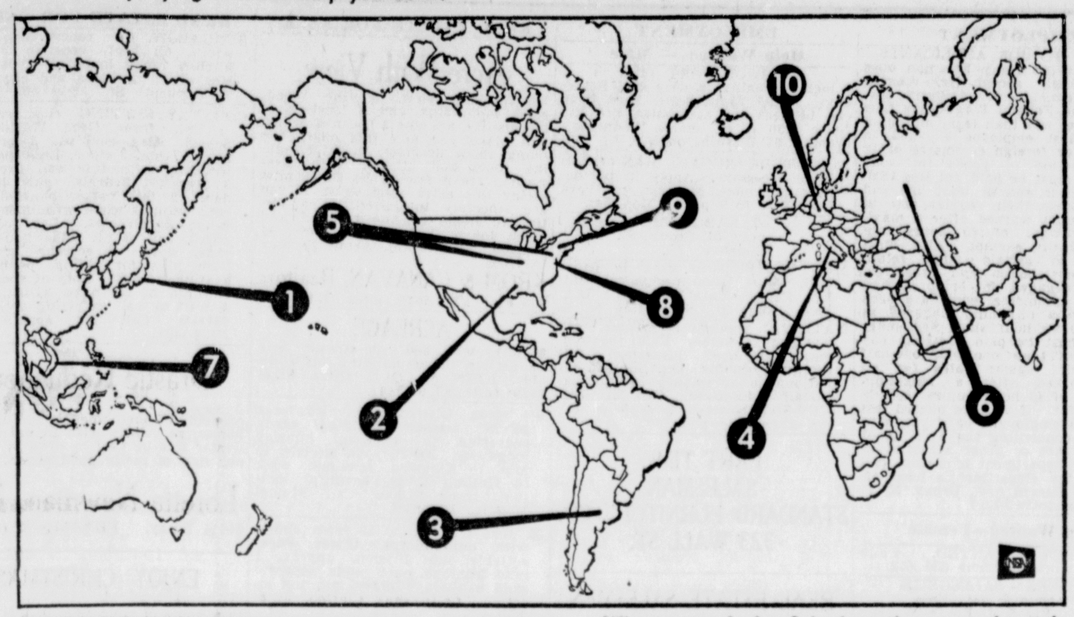
WHAT AND WHERE?..... A news quiz game for readers

In each of the numbered spots marked on this map a newsworthy event occurred recently. As a newspaper reader, check your memory and your knowledge by identifying the event through the location. The accompanying box will help you do it.



MATCH 'EM UP

- ☐ Blessing for coup
- ☐ Nation in confusion
- ☐ Miraculous res
- ☐ Trouble with neighbor
- ☐ More tough talk
- ☐ First hat in ring
- ☐ Disaster in Orient
- ☐ Nightmare in air
- ☐ Off-year vote
- ☐ Deal to feed Reds

What occurred where? Look at the map and match up the numbers with the events listed in the box at the left. Then turn to the answers on this page and see how well you did. Score yourself 10 points for each correct answer. A score of 20 or less indicates you'd better start reading the papers a bit more. A score of 50—you're fairly hep. A score of 75—you're pretty sharp. A score of 90 or more—congratulations to a real news hawk!

20 Years Since

several seconds that's been a blank all these years.

"I remember looking over a cocoanut log barrier and picking the route I would take. I remember reaching the blockhouse with my radio man. But I've never been able to reconstruct what happened in between."

Shoup had crouched behind the log barrier after wading several hundred yards through shallow water churned by bullets and exploding shells.

"A sniper had put a bullet between his eyes."

Shoup was silent a moment, then went on:

"I wouldn't be here today if I hadn't turned to look at him."

For just then, another bullet fired by a Japanese sniper struck the water, spent its force and slammed into Shoup's neck.

If it had hit him in the face, Shoup believes he would have been killed. Instead, he escaped with a badly swollen neck.

In all, Shoup was struck in nine different places. Most of the wounds were nicks, he said.

His most acute memories are the promises he made in an effort to comfort some of those who were dying under the blazing sun of Tarawa — promises to help take care of their children.

Remembers Promise

"These promises I made without any realization of how I could fulfill them," he said, "yet those men died believing what I promised."

To make good on those battlefield promises, Shoup has put all his weight behind a scholarship fund set up by the 2nd Marine Division Assn. to educate the children of men who died at Tarawa.

Tonight, as on all other anniversaries of the battle, Shoup will get together with a group of its survivors.

Boler Pleads Guilty To Slashing Wife

Scipio Boler Jr. of 40 Broadway, charged with assaulting his wife, Lorraine, with a knife last Jan. 5, entered a plea of guilty to second degree assault in county court today after a jury had been completed.

Mrs. Boler was cut about the face and neck during an argument. It required 94 stitches to close the wounds. Joseph Avis appeared for the defendant who was remanded to jail and will be sentenced Nov. 29.

AT&T Proposes Split

NEW YORK (AP) — American Telephone and Telegraph Co. directors proposed today a 2 for 1 split of the common stock and a hike in the dividend effective next year.

The dividend would be 50 cents a share on the proposed split stock. This would be equal to $1.00 quarterly on the current stock.

The split, if approved by shareholders at the annual meeting in April, would be only the second in the history of the world's largest private enterprise. It would be effective in June.

Witnessing the ceremony will be Kingston police commissioners, former police chiefs, Chief Robert Murphy, Mayor John J. Schwenk and Kingston policemen off duty at the time.

Newkirk Advises Steps to Assure Delivery by Yule

Faced with the certainty that Christmas 1963 will set an all-time record for mailings of Christmas cards and gifts, Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk today requested the public's cooperation in his annual "Mail Early for Christmas" Campaign.

The postmaster said "Here are the things to watch to be sure that every Christmas card and gift package will be delivered before Christmas Eve.

"Check your Christmas card and gift list very carefully—be certain each address is complete with full name, street and number, city, state and zone or ZIP Code number.

Stock up soon on sturdy packing materials for your gift packages, including heavy wrapping paper, corrugated cartons, strong cord and paper adhesive tape.

Buy your postage stamps now. Be sure to use the colorful new five cent Christmas Tree stamps on your cards.

Procure free labels from your post office which read "ALL FOR LOCAL DELIVERY" and "ALL FOR OUT-OF-TOWN DELIVERY," so that you can sort your Christmas cards into two groups, with addresses all facing one way, thus insuring fast delivery.

Be sure that your full name and address is on all of your Christmas card envelopes and shipping labels and be doubly sure to include your ZIP Code number in your return address."

The postmaster especially requests that senders schedule their Christmas mailings so that all cards and gift packages going to most distant points are mailed by Dec. 10. Those for local destinations should be mailed at least a week before Christmas.

Fog Covers Sections

Thick fog blanketed communities in the Poughkeepsie area along the Hudson River this morning, and forced traffic on Route 9 and other highways of the Town of Poughkeepsie to come to a standstill. The fog apparently was local and rose from the river. Reports from the Dutchess County Airport at New Hackensack, showed no fog in the area. For some time after the fog began to lift, visibility in that section was reported zero to 50 feet.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved cautiously, with prices mixed and trading moderate early this afternoon.

The market was on the upbeat when news came that two large brokerage houses had been suspended from trading on the New York and American Stock Exchanges because of their financial condition.

The ticker tape ceased printing prices as a long, detailed official statement from the New York Stock Exchange spelled out the action taken.

Uncertainty also prevailed as to what dividend action directors of AT&T would take. The stock moved erractically.

Motors held generally firm. Steels took small losses. Airlines and many other groups were spotty.

Losses of about 2 apiece were shown by Control Data and U.S. Smelting. Xerox, however, rebounded 5 points from its 31-point loss taken on the first two trading days this week. IBM and Polaroid were up a point or more.

Paul Dmock, a student at St. Peter's School, Rosendale, will be named honorary chief for January. Other winners, who will later be named honorary chief, are James Roskoski, Immaculate Conception School, Kingston; Eileen Luczai, St. Joseph's School, New Paltz, and Mary Golden, St. Ursula Academy, Kingston.

Of the 22 schools in the county, only four schools participated in the essay contest. The prizes will be sent to the schools where school officials will make the presentations.

With 125 members from 29 companies present Tuesday night, the Association was guest of the Hurley Fire Company. President Herbert Faurote presided at the meeting which was opened with prayer by the Rev. Harold F. Schadewald, chaplain.

Among the guests present were Al Belle Isle, secretary of the Dutchess county association; William Wooten of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association; Joseph Wicker, president of the Orange County Association and Paul Blanchard of the Inter-county Relations Committee.

An amendment to the Association by-laws authorizing the expenditure of money for trophies was adopted and the new by-laws will now be published and available for distribution at the January meeting which will be held in West Hurley.

149 October Fire Calls

Ulster County Fire Co-ordinator Winfred Snyder reported there were 149 fire calls during the month of October. Thirteen Mutual Aid calls were received, five false alarms sounded and there were eight emergency calls.

Al Belle Isle of the Legislative Committee reported on the meeting held Oct. 17 at Albany where bills affecting firemen, to be presented to the legislature, were discussed. There were 35 proposed bills presented to the meeting. One of the bills was to have the legislature authorize the governor to proclaim the third Sunday of June each year as a memorial to volunteer firemen. Of the 25 proposals, seven were rejected, 16 were approved and two were withdrawn. Ten of the remaining were referred to the Legislative Committee.

The need for endowments to the Firemen's Home in Hudson was brought to the attention of the Association by Al Belle Isle. He pointed out that such endowments would make the Home self-supporting and enumerated the number of firemen now at the Home. There are six former firemen from Ulster County in the Home at present.

Ulster County Day at the Firemen's Home was discussed and Henry Ulrich was named a committee of one to investigate and report.

An invitation to attend the Orange Couny Association meeting Nov. 26 at Florida, N. Y., was extended by Joseph Wicker.

Secretary Fred C. Harder reported the death of Charles Darlinghouse, a member of Pioneer Engine Company of Ellenville on October 16 and when the meeting adjourned it did so out of respect of his memory and also Kenneth Wamsley, Hurley, who was killed while responding to a fire. Darlinghouse was a member of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association. Wamsley was a member of the Hurley fire department.

Miss Donovan Heads Young GOP at Sage

Miss Ellen Donovan of 133 Fair Street was elected a governor of the Young Republican Club of Rensselaer County at the statewide meeting of the organization held in Rochester.

Miss Donovan, a student at Russell Sage College in Troy, has been active in forming a Young Republican Club at that college. She also is active in the Young Republican Club of Kingston.

Cambodia Calls

Ngo Dinh Diem. Sihanouk apparently wanted to be free of any such potential danger.

The prince also has shown increasing friendliness to Communist China since the installation of a coalition regime in neighboring Laos raised the possibility of an eventual Communist takeover there.

Pensioner Seeks Growth But Fails in Two Choices

Q) "I am retired on a pension of $300 per month and have $36,000 in savings banks, $15,000 of which I want to put into growth stocks. I like General Motors, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Jones & Laughlin Steel, Zenith Radio, or Libby-Owens-Ford Glass. What do you suggest?" M.D.

A) I should like first to commend you for your forethought in initiating a growth stock program. I believe you will find that it will enhance your capital and protect you against inflation over a period of time.

Of your suggested issues, only General Motors, Jersey Standard, and Zenith are considered growth stocks. Both Jones & Laughlin and Libby-Owens-Ford are satisfactory for income, but these are cyclical situations in which earnings show variation rather than growth.

In their place I suggest Consolidated Foods, which is diversifying and showing a good growth pattern, and American Express, which has expanded earnings consistently for many years.

Q) "I own a two-apartment house on which I owe $12,000. I live in one, and the rent from the other ($100 per month) pays my mortgage interest and is amortizing the principal. I have 378 shares of Pacific Gas & Electric. Should I sell these, pay off my mortgage, and have more income? My Social Security payments are not enough." L.W.

A) I like Pacific Gas & Electric as one of the better growth utilities. The shares pay $1 annually, which brings you a yearly income of $378. Normally, I would not advise the sale of Pacific Gas & Electric.

It appears from your question that the redemption of your mortgage would bring you in an additional $1,200 per year. Since you need more income, on that basis alone I believe you should sell Pacific Gas & Electric and extinguish your mortgage.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all questions personally, but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Carlino said the Republican lawmakers, in addition to considering on New York City's off-track betting proposal, "will act as well on the admission of the chief officials of the City of New York, who in asking for off-track legalization, predicated the request on their inability to contend with illegal gambling."

Two-Ply Benefits

Wagner and other proponents of off-track legalization contend that, in addition to providing millions in tax revenue for the city and state, it would wipe out illegal bookmaking and allied rackets.

Zaretzki said the Republican move to concentrate on New York City as the center of a gambling investigation was an attempt to take the spotlight off suburban Westchester County, a Republican stronghold in which the State Investigation Commission recently found police corruption related to bookmakers.

Zaretzki called the investigation plan "a typical tyrannical move on the part of tyrant Carlino."

Wagner said of Carlino's statement:

"This gets a little more ridiculous on the part of Joe every day. He is trying to get away from the fact that the overwhelming sentiment of the people is for off-track betting."

Saugerties Dems to Meet

death," Father Jacobs said. "We're trying to make the corpse look as life-like as possible. This is nonsense. We're forgetting the spiritual and Christian meaning of death."

He proposed that members of his parish complete three copies of the form, leaving one with the church, retaining one with personal papers and giving the third to the person most likely to be responsible for funeral arrangements.

Talk Viet Policy

HONOLULU (AP) — High-level talks on the United States' future policies in Viet Nam and all of Southeast Asia began today in Pacific military command headquarters near Honolulu.

The day-long session brought together top - drawer military men and diplomats from Washington and Saigon to map out future strategy in the fight against communism in Southeast Asia.

EMPLOYMENT

NOTICE TO JOB APPLICANTS
The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help-Wanted advertisements from employers covered by the Federal Wage-Hour Law if they offer less than legal minimum wages. Most employes engaged in interstate or foreign commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce must be paid not less than $1.25 an hour and at least one and one-half times their regular rate of pay for hours worked after a maximum workweek of 40 hours, unless specifically exempt. Also, most employes in certain large retail, service, construction and other enterprises engaged in or producing goods for commerce, who have been entitled to a minimum wage of at least $1.00 an hour since September 3, 1961, must be paid overtime pay of not less than one and one-half times their regular rates for all hours worked after a maximum workweek of 44 hours, unless specifically exempt. If you are offered less by covered employers, or if you have questions concerning the Fair Labor Standards Act or other activities of the U. S. Department of Labor, call or write the Department's local office at 881 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y. 10452 WYandotte 2-1235.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Contracts Given For Mt. Marion School Building

The Board of Education of the Saugerties Central Schools District, at a special meeting on Tuesday evening, accepted bids on the Mt. Marion School addition.

General construction was awarded to the firm of Slover-Jansen-Schline, of Kingston, at $79,642; heating and ventilating to R. J. Welsh and Son, Saugerties, at $20,045; plumbing to R. J. Welsh and Son, Saugerties, at $8,834; and electrical to Joe O'Connor, Incorporated, Kingston, at $11,315.

The bids received for this construction Sept. 16 were rejected as they were considerably over the architect's estimates. Through the use of alternates, quotations received Nov. 4 make possible the awarding of contracts. Construction will start as soon as possible and the five-room addition is expected to be ready for use by September, 1964.

In order to bring the bids within the architect's original estimates, it was necessary to remove items of equipment from the contracts. At a later date, quotations will be requested on these items by the school administration, and it is anticipated that this procedure will result in considerable savings through the use of state contracts and the elimination of mark-up and fees.

President Robert Herb was authorized to sign the necessary contracts and documents.

Flags Presented To Local Schools

Sixteen American flags were presented to the Saugerties Central Schools by four organizations in ceremonies held on Friday and Monday mornings.

Representatives from the Daughters of America, the American Legion Auxiliary, the Daughters of the American Revolution and the VFW Auxiliary held classroom presentations in Malden and Flatbush Friday, followed by the junior-senior high school rites. Main Street School received its flag Monday morning during the usual assembly.

The ceremonies consisted of a brief history of the flag by Mrs. Daniel Lamouree of the Daughters of the American Revolution, flag etiquette by Mrs. Leola Whitaker of the Daughters of America, and the flag blessing by Mrs. Catherine Teetsel and Mrs. Anna Johnson of the American Legion Auxiliary. Mrs. Isabel DeCelle of the VFW introduced the ladies.

The program closed with the Pledge of Allegiance and the singing of America or the National Anthem. Arrangements were made through the cooperation of the individual school principals, Norman Bollinder, Patrick Buonfiglio and David Cunningham.

Also accompanying the group were Mrs. Ethel Jehle, VFW Auxiliary, Mrs. Lois Maines, Legion Auxiliary and Mrs. Thelma Young, DAR.

It was necessary to have the extra flags in the school system in order to comply with the new state ruling of daily recitation of the Pledge of Allegiance now in effect, according to the Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Dexter Arnold. The flags were purchased through Joseph LaHoud of Tries Terrace.

Thanksgiving Recess

The Saugerties Central Schools will close for the Thanksgiving recess at noon Wednesday, Nov. 27. All pupils will be dismissed at the end of the morning session and students on the afternoon session in those grades having split session will not be required to report. Schools will reopen Monday, Dec. 2.

Centerville WSCS To Hold Yule Sale

The WSCS of the Centerville Methodist Church will sponsor a Christmas gift sale Friday beginning 10 a. m. and continuing through the day. The sale will be held in the Johnstone Building, Main Street.

A variety of items including handmade articles, home baked goods, toys and novelties will be offered. A used jewelry table will be featured also.

Evangel Team Conducts Series At Local Church

Special services with the theme "Days of Decision" will be conducted in the First Baptist Church of Saugerties beginning Thursday, and continuing through Sunday, Nov. 24. These services will be under the direction of Evangelist Lew Stewart and Merrill Dence, "The Singing Pilgrims."

Dence, the son of a minister, began his career of Christian service at an early age. His musical career began at seven years of age when he began to play the piano and sing. He has traveled with evangelists and for Youth for Christ in Europe. For four years he was music director at Highland Lake Bible Conference, Highland Lake, where he paired up with Lew Stewart and became part of the Singing Pilgrim team.

Services will be held week days at 7:30 nightly, and Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m.

The public may attend.

School Head Is Participant in National Parley

Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, Superintendent of Schools, was a participant in the American Assembly's conference on The Population Dilemma, sponsored by the George Washington University and held at the Airlie House at Warrenton, Va.

Of 125 participants, Dr. Arnold was the only representative of public education. Participants ranged from members of foreign embassies and United States Government officials to heads of research organizations and university professors.

The American Assembly was established by Dwight D. Eisenhower at Columbia University in 1950 and has held assemblies of national leaders and has published books to illuminate issues of United States policy. The assembly is a national non-partisan, educational institution, and attempts to provide a body of knowledge, a setting, and a techniques for bringing thoughtful persons together for mutual give-and-take discussions on major issues and to insert their opinions into the flow of American thought.

Discussion began Thursday and continued through Sunday.

Dr. Thomas H. Carroll, president of George Washington University, served as chairman of the assembly. Speakers included Luther H. Hodges, United States Secretary of Commerce, the Rev. John A. O'Brien, research professor of theology at the University of Notre Dame, and Dr. Richard N. Gardner, deputy Assistant Secretary of State for International Organization Affairs.

Pioneer Girls Celebrate Week With Tea Monday

The Pioneer Girls of the First Baptist Church of Saugerties will be celebrating Pioneer Girls' Week, Nov. 17-24, by a Pal-Gal Tea Monday evening, Nov. 25. The Pilgrim, Colonist, and Explorer groups will each be taking part in giving an "over-all" picture of the weekly meetings of Pioneer Girls to the Pals present. There will be demonstrations and exhibits during the evening, and refreshments will be served at the conclusion.

The Pioneer Girls join 80,000 others in the United States and Canada in their celebration of Pioneer Girls Week. Pioneer Girls is a club program

Mild Air Due Most of Period

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Extended forecasts for New York State, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau for the period from 7 p.m. today to 7 p.m. Wednesday:

Eastern New York — Unseasonably mild weather most of the period, possibly turning colder by the end. Temperatures likely will average 5 to 10 degrees above normal. Some chance of a few light showers early in the period. More general rains are likely over the weekend or early next week.

Western New York—Temperatures will average 8 to 11 degrees above normal. A little cooler Thursday, then little change until cooler early next week. Precipitation will average around one inch, possibly more, as rain tonight, ending Thursday or Thursday night. Rain or showers again around the weekend.

Temperature normals — Daytime highs, 40-49; nighttime time lows, 27-35.

Warns U.S. on Arms Race

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament today he has repeatedly warned the United States against setting an arms race going between India and Pakistan by supplying new equipment to Pakistan's air force.

Parliament member Hiren Mukherjee, a Communist, asked Nehru about recent news reports from Washington that the United States might be considering replacing Pakistan's old Sabre jet fighters with modern combat planes.

Nehru replied:

"It is possible some re-equipping of Pakistan's air force may be going on. I do not know. We have repeatedly pointed out to the United States government that in view of the Pakistan government's attitude and policy, it would not be very desirable to set a kind of arms race between them and us."

Still Haggling

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Leaders of a non-Communist guerrilla group that fought the Diem regime for years but agreed to rally to the new Vietnamese government apparently are still haggling over conditions for their return, according to American sources.

About 600 rebels, belonging to the religious-military Buddhist sect called the Hoa Hao, are camped in the upper Mekong Delta 110 miles west of Saigon. Their leaders are negotiating with revolutionary government officials.

Winter Zeroes In on Montana

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wintry weather zeroed in on northern and central areas in Montana today with cold, snow and brisk winds.

Temperatures dropped below zero in some areas as a blast of arctic air spread across the Canadian border. One of the cold spots was Cut Bank, with a reading of 5 below. Light snow fell in many sections, with heavy snow forecasts in Mountain areas.

Cold wave warnings were posted for Wyoming as the icy air spread southward and eastward. Colder weather also was in prospect for areas in the Dakotas and Minnesota.

Outside the cold belt temperatures were generally near or above seasonal levels. Readings were in the 30s and 40s in the major part of the country with the 50s and 60s reported in the Gulf and the southern Pacific Coast.

Light rain and clouds covered broad areas in the central part of the nation but no severe storms were reported. Rain also fell along the West Coast. More than two inches doused Point Piedras Blancas, Calif., in a six-hour period.

Names In The News

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PARIS (AP) — Socialist Gaston Defferre, mayor of Marseille, may challenge Charles de Gaulle in France's 1965 presidential election.

"I have begun to think it over," said Defferre. "I have not merely the right to do so, but also the duty."

De Gaulle is virtually certain to seek re-election.

CHICAGO (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill's actress daughter, Sarah has canceled her engagement at a suburban Chicago threater and says she's going home to England.

Miss Churchill was to have started rehearsals Tuesday in the leading role of "Glad Tidings." But she said she was emotionally upset and couldn't perform.

A spokesman for the Drury Lane Theater said opening of the play, scheduled for Thanksgiving, will be postponed until Dec. 1. The theater will try to find a substitute for Miss Churchill.

LONDON (AP) — A Soviet rocket specialist, Col. Gen. Vladimir Tolubko, says the Soviet Union has the stronger nuclear force, no matter what U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara says.

In a Moscow broadcast monitored in London, Tolubko said:

"In the competition imposed on us by aggressive forces for quality and quantity of nuclear missiles, we not only do not drag behind those who menace us with war—we are very much better than they."

Tolubko, first assistant commander of Soviet strategic rocket forces, was replying to a recent speech by McNamara, who claimed nuclear superiority for the United States.

Replacing Latin In Much of Mass Voted by Council

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council today completed approval of a liturgical provision allowing use of modern languages in place of Latin in much of the Roman Catholic Mass.

Today the more than 2,100 council fathers overwhelmingly adopted amendments concerning the Mass, and prepared to vote later this week on similar amendments concerning other sections of the liturgy schema.

A wide range of reforms in liturgical practices are embodied in the document, including use of modern languages in the sacraments, greater use of contemporary art in church buildings and decorations and the use of native instruments for religious ceremonies in African and Asian countries.

Underlying the document is the desire of many bishops to localize worship and make it more meaningful for laymen. It will be up to national bishops' conferences to decide when and how to institute the reforms in their countries.

State Launches Investigation of Funeral Prices

NEW YORK (AP)—The state attorney general's office has begun an investigation of alleged price-gouging and fraud in the funeral business. A spokesman said the probe was prompted by disclosures in Jessica Mitford's book, "The American Way of Death."

Barnett Levy, who heads the Consumer Frauds Bureau in the office of State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz, said Tuesday night the investigation was aimed not only at finding whether there is "specific evidence of punishable fraud."

It is also "to determine what can be done to protect the public in their time of grief," he said.

Born in Elevator

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Four persons got on the elevator at St. Mary's Hospital, but five got off.

The fifth was a 6-pound, 1½-ounce son born to Mrs. Shirley Cooper, 32, of near Maynardville, as she was being taken to the delivery room.

HERMAN J. EATON C.L.U. Answers Your Insurance Questions

QUESTION: Can you tell me what is the difference between an insurance agent and an insurance broker?
ANSWER: Roughly, an agent is a licensed representative of a company or companies in a certain territory and a broker places his business wherever he wishes except that it must be through a licensed agent.
